FDR CAUTIONS DIES AGAINST HASTY ACTION

Says Executive Campaign on Subversive Groups 'May Be Handicapped.'

CONFERENCE CALLED

Immunity to Witnesses Before Senate Warned Against By President.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt has telegraphed Chairman Dies (D.-Tex) of the house committee on unAmerican activities that careful executive plans to combat subversive activities "may be severely handicapped or completely destroyed" by premature disclosure of facts or of suppositions to the public.

The president told Dies that departmental investigations also might be hindered by "hasty seizure of evidence" or by "giving of immunities" to witnesses before congressional committees.

The Dies committee, at odds with the justice department as to the best methods of combating subversive activity, was reported almost ready to issue a "red paper" dealing with alleged Communist operations in the United States.

An authoritative source said it was heavily documented and almost twice as bulky as the 500-page "white paper" which the committee released last week, setting forth evidence on alleged German efforts at espionage sabotage and economic penetration here.

The committee's differences with the justice department meanwhile were headed for a White House discussion

Dies, together with state and justice department officials, has been invited to confer with the president, probably Friday, at a meeting expected to result in definition of the operating spheres of various agencies looking into subversive activities.

President Roosevelt said the Dies committee had a perfect right to investigate unAmerican activities, but could not conduct executive functions.

A motion to make the election unanimous was approved. The new house will have 60 Democratic members and 78 Republicans.

Mason's victory came as a surprise, since his opponents for the position figured most prominently in early discussions.

BREAKS WINDOW, GETS 30 RINGS

Robber Scoops Up Gems at Fox Jewelry Store, Looted Twice In Six Days.

Robbed the second time in six days by a window smasher, Sam Fox Jewelry store officials today reported the theft of 30 small diamond rings scooped from the display window after the glass had been broken.

The robbery was discovered by Patrolmen John Steele and E. D. Mitchell at 3:30 a. m. today. A check of merchandise by Sam Fox, proprietor, revealed the rings missing. They were valued at $500.

Five diamond rings were stolen from the store on Park avenue west, last Friday.

Police Chief M. K. Bates today expressed the opinion that both robberies were committed by the same person.

Fox said the loot in the latest robbery consisted of 30 rings, small solitaires and wedding bands with small stones. He said that the wholesale cost of the rings was about $500 but that rising prices in diamonds would increase that figure considerably. The rings were all in boxes which were taken along with the rings.

Police said the entire window panel was broken, probably with a stone wrapped in padding to deaden the noise. That the robber worked in a hurry is evidenced by the fact that in his haste he neglected to pick up several rings which fell to the floor of the entrance way and which police recovered.

Chief Bates expressed the belief that the robber had hidden in the vicinity of the store until the police cruiser had passed on its rounds and then had made the quick break.

Fox said the loss was covered by insurance.

Plans Resumption of Conversations With Soviet Envoy

WASHINGTON — (AP) - Immediate resumption of diplomatic talks between the United States and Russia, interrupted by the recent visit to Berlin of the Soviet premier, Vyacheslaff Molotov, was disclosed today at the state department.

A meeting was announced for late afternoon between Constantine Oumansky, Soviet ambassador, and Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state.

It was the first such conference scheduled since U. S.-Russian conversations stopped shortly before Molotov went to Berlin for talks with Adolf Hitler and other German leaders

This was interpreted in informed quarters as a sign that Molotov's Berlin visit had not impaired the negotiations which have been in progress here for several months looking to a general improvement of Russo-American relations.

100 Homes Dark as Ice Storm Grips Mansfield and County

An ice storm which spread over the northern part of Ohio yesterday damaged communication lines and slowed traffic in the Mansfield area. Limbs were torn from scores of trees as the frozen rain coated them with an armor of ice.

Mansfield Telephone company officials estimated that 200 telephones in the northern part of the county were out of service today because of tree limbs on wires and poles pulled down by the ice coating. It was expected that service would be restored by tonight.

From 75 to 100 homes north and east of Mansfield were without lights and electric power most of Tuesday afternoon when tree limbs broke power lines and caused short circuits in the wiring.

R. D. Iden, distribution superintendent of the Ohio Public Service company, said service was restored to all the homes last night.

Most of the damage to telephone and power lines was in the Shiloh, Adario, and Plymouth sections.

Most of the ice in Mansfield melted last night when the mercury moved up to 35 degrees. The reading this morning was 24.

The storm, which spread northeastward from Texas over most of the nation brought heavy snow to the northern and eastern states and drenched the southern states with rain. Snowfall along Lake Erie in Ohio ranged from two to three inches deep.

Snow flurries and slightly colder weather were forecast for the Mansfield area and northern Ohio today and Thursday.

Mediterranean Battle Waged At Long Range

Duce's Warships Flee at First Sight of Royal Navy; Effort to Escape From Taranto Base Apparently Results In Failure.

(By International News Service)

LONDON—A long-range battle in the Mediterranean in which the Italian fleet again fled after coming in contact with the British navy was announced by the admiralty today.

There were no details beyond the fact the Italian warships again streaked for home after coming in contact with the powerful guns of Britain's "senior service."

Some weeks ago, British ships encountered a unit of the Italian fleet in the Mediterranean. The latter dashed back to the safety of home ports after the destroyer Artigliere was sunk by a direct broadside.

The admiralty promised details later of today's clash, but in the meantime a brief communique said:

"The British fleet in the Mediterranean engaged a portion of the Italian fleet at noon today."

The admiralty communique said the Italian warships, which included two battleships and a large force of cruisers and destroyers, immediately fled for their base as soon as they sighted the British warships.

However, the British fleet pursued the fleeing Italian vessels and succeeded in engaging them at long range.

The text of the admiralty communique announcing the battle said:

"Information has been received that British naval forces in the Mediterranean made contact shortly before noon today with an Italian force reported to consist of two battleships, accompanied by a large force of cruisers and destroyers.

"The enemy immediately altered course and retired at high speed toward his base when he became aware of the approach of the British forces, but the British ships pursued and engaged the enemy at extreme range. No further information is available at present, but full details will be announced as soon as possible."

The British Mediterranean fleet has been trying for weeks to engage the Italian fleet. British sources have claimed that it has travelled in the Mediterranean a distance equal to three times around the world in a vain effort to contact the main units of the Italian navy.

The purpose of the recent British aerial raid on the Italian naval base at Taranto, when part of the Italian fleet was reported crippled, was to drive the fleet out into the open sea

Powerful units of the British fleet were said to have been waiting outside Taranto to engage the Italian warships if they should attempt to flee.

Reports were received within the last 48 hours that the Italian fleet had left the base at Taranto. These reports led to the belief that the British Mediterranean fleet may have still been waiting outside and may have forced the Italians to flee back into Taranto or some other nearby base.

PURGED: 64 Rumanians Die Under Iron Guardists' Fire

(By United Press)

BERLIN—Pro-Nazi Iron Guardists at Bucharest lined up 64 Rumanian political prisoners, including former Premier George Argeseanu, in front of the tomb of their slain Iron Guard leader and shot them dead, the official news agency said today.

The executions were in retaliation for the slaying of Iron Guard Leader Corneliu Zelea Codreanu two years ago. They took place at Jihlava fortress prison, where Codreanu was killed during the purge of pro-Nazis undertaken by exiled King Carol.

Codreanu's tomb in the prison yard, just outside Bucharest, had been covered with a concrete slab but this was opened when the Iron Guard foes were executed, the agency said.

In addition to the shooting of the former officials who served Carol, the Iron Guardists dragged many other foes from bed and placed them under arrest, the agency said. These included former Premier Ion Gigurtu

Former King Carol and his mistress, Magda Lupescu, recently have been in Spain, which granted extradition to Rumania of Ernest Urdareanu, former chamberlain to Carol.

Those executed included Gen. Ion Benglin, former chief of police, two police majors who were charged with supervising the killing of Codreanu; 13 legionnaires and 14 police sergeants charged with carrying out Iron Guard killings.

Gen. Constantin Argetoianu, former premier, and Gen. Constantin Ilasievic were arrested, the agency said, but the reason was not explained.

The agency said it was not known who ordered the executions but that the "ringleaders" later went to Premier Gen. Ion Antonescu and "gave themselves up."

RAIDS: Nazis Make Sudden Daylight Attack Upon London

(By International News Service)

LONDON—German sky raiders struck anew at London today, dropping nine high explosives on the capital in a sudden daylight attack.

A number of houses were demolished but no casualties were reported

Early this afternoon the air ministry announced that a few bombs also were dropped on London shortly before daylight and that two points in eastern England also were bombed. Little damage and no casualties resulted, the air ministry said.

Two air raid alarms sounded in London during the morning, the city's 370th and 371st since war began.

The bombs fell on the capital during the first alarm, which began at 7 a. m. and lasted about an hour.

The second sounded at 11 a. m. (5 a. m. EST) but ended half an hour later without further incident.

Between the two alarms gunfire was heard in the London region and planes were seen flying over the capital at tremendous altitudes.

Today's raids followed attacks

Financial Aid to Britain Left Up to Next Congress

EXPECT NEEDS MORE CLEARLY KNOWN LATER

Senate Foreign Relations Committee Decides on Postponement.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The senate foreign relations committee probably will decide today to postpone until early next year consideration of legislation for extending financial aid to Great Britain.

Postponement of the controversial subject was said to be in accord with wishes of President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Cordell Hull. British financial needs, it was said, will be more clearly known when the new congress convenes in January.

Meeting today for the first time under the direction of its new chairman, Walter F. George, who recently succeeded the late Sen. Key Pittman, (D.) Nev., the committee is expected to discuss various British aid proposals informally.

It has before it a bill be Sen. William H. King, (D.) Utah, to repeal the Johnson law—forbidding loans to World war debt defaulters—and to amend the neutrality act so that loans can be made to Great Britain.

Sen. Gerald P. Nye, (R.) N. D., a committee member, plans to press for action on a resolution empowering a sub-committee to determine the extent of British empire holdings in the United States.

George said there would be an informal discussion of those proposals at today's meeting, but was "confident no action will be taken."

George conferred with Secretary of State Cordell Hull yesterday and pointed out later than the British ambassador, Lord Lothian, had said upon his return from London this week that the financial aid question need not necessarily be settled until early next year.

The rest of congress was quiet today, both the house and senate being in recess. A senate judicary subcommittee considers the nomination of J. Warren Madden to be a judge of the U. S. court of claims. Madden's successor as chairman of the national labor relations board, Dr. Harry A. Millis, received unanimous approval of the senate yesterday.

When the house meets tomorrow it may complete action on the Walter-Logan bill which was unexpectedly passed by the senate yesterday. Rep. Francis E. Walter, (D.) Pa., co-author of the bill to subject the rulings of quasi-judicial agencies to court review, will attempt to end its 18 month journey through congress by asking the house to agree to revision made by the senate.

3 Juveniles Win Court Paroles on Federal Charges

Three juvenile delinquents, involved in two offenses against the federal postal department, have been paroled upon recommendation of a district representative of the department, according to probate court attaches.

Two Lexington youths, both 15, were charged with stealing cash from the postoffice. They were said to have taken approximately $15 over a period of a month, by reaching a lock box opening to an open cash drawer beside the box. They were paroled to an official of the community.

The second case involved a 12-year-old colored girl of Mansfield who was charged with forging an endorsement of a postal money order which had fallen into her hands. The order was cashed at a local shoe store.

Both cases were heard by Probate Judge C. J. Anderson. As none of the juveniles had ever been in trouble before, representative of the postal department recommended that they be paroled. The Mansfield girl was paroled to her mother.

Returning Vultee Workers to Be Inspected

There should be some way of compiling the bits of unconscious humor which creeps into police reports. Last night police found a man very, very drunkee who had been wandering around in the rain and sleet. Their report gave the man's name and merely said "Soaked inside and out."

Police Chief McCarthy of Ashland is learning all about Mansfield's parking meters—the hard way. The visiting officer overstayed his parking time today and received a yellow ticket. Another "pupil" who had to learn that way is Claude Hunter. The former mayor came to police office this morning to pay his dollar and said that he didn't know the meters were in effect on Saturday nights and had parked at a meter without feeding the kitty. And after all the publicity on parking meter schedules!

Mansfielders who think they are being "abused" by the present cold snap should take pity on the members of Battery D, now in camp at Fort Shelby, Miss. According to a letter received here from Sergeant Howard W. Perathaner, the temperature has been as low as 24 degrees at the camp during the past week, while in Mansfield it has generally been over 30 degrees. In order to keep warm, the boys have set up stoves in each tent and have dug out the heavy clothing issued them by the government.

William Moore, editor of the Rocky Fork Tattler, newspaper published by the boys at the CCC camp southeast of Mansfield, wants a staff cartoonist and an artist for the paper. Applicants, however, must be camp enrollees. Moore drew the cover page and decorative art for the editorial page for the current issue of the paper, but pointed out in his editorial comment that it was too much of a job to continue. The staff of the paper is made up largely of youths who are studying journalism under the WPA adult education program in the county.

3 DAYS LEFT IN ROLL CALL

Red Cross, With 8,509 Members Reported, Confident Drive Will Exceed Quota.

With the Red Cross Roll Call scheduled to close Saturday evening, workers today were confident that the minimum goal of 10,500 members would be topped, perhaps by several hundred.

The Roll Call roster today shows a total of 8,509 members leaving 2,000 yet to be enrolled. Office workers said "at least that number was in sight," and very probably 200 more. It was believed that when the Rall Call is ended the membership would be an increase over last year's roster of 10,700.

The Shelby branch workers' report in the last few days showed that the Roll Call had gone over in a big way in that community. Shelby turned in 2,600 memberships totaling $3,000.

Most of the industries in the city have turned in their reports and all showed increases over last year. Interest in Red Cross work is at a higher point this year than any time since the close of the World war, according to workers in the drive.

The Roll Call opened on Armistice day—Nov. 11—and as usual closes on the last day of the month. It is believed that most of the county precincts will have reported by the closing date.

SEND THOUSANDS OF CHRISTMAS HEALTH SEALS THROUGH MAILS

Thousands of tiny Christmas Health Seals, each one an atom in a great national structure for the betterment of public health, were distributed through Mansfield and Richland county this week by direct mail.

The seals this year carry a picture of three small children singing Christmas carols. This theme was chosen because it seemed fitting in view of the fact that in this hemisphere alone children still have cause to sing.

The seals, in sheets of 100, were mailed to 4,800 persons in the city and county who most probably would be interested in the fight against tuberculosis. The quota set for this year is $4,800.

Christmas seals are the sole support of the National Tuberculosis association and its affiliated state, city and county organizations. The only method by which the public is asked to participate in the work of the national association is through the annual sale of Christmas seals.

In Richland county and Mansfield the sale of health seals is sponsored by the Richland County Tuberculosis association of which Dr. F. J. Heringhaus is president. Mrs. H. C. Brokaw of Shelby is chairman of the seal sale this year, with Mrs. Roy C. Rehder, Mansfield, in charge of the mailing campaign.

Help to Protect Your Home from Tuberculosis

The attractive seals, which are used extensively on mailing packages and greetings, will be sold at the postoffices in Mansfield and Shelby after Dec. 1.

Funds received through the annual sale of health seals are used in tuberculosis diognostic work through the free clinics. Twelve regular clinics and four re-check clinics are held throughout the year, all of them free. This work is separate from the money expended each year by county commissioners for treatment of the disease.

FBI AGENTS TO CHECK AGAINST POSSIBLE SPIES

16-Month Agreement Signed To End 12-Day Strike In Plane Factory.

(By Associated Press)

DOWNEY, Calif.—The sprawling Vultee aircraft factory, its 12-day strike settled by a 16-months agreement providing for arbitration of workers' disputes, resumes operations today on its $84,000,000 worth of military contracts.

The agreement, signed last night by representatives of the company and the CIO United Automobile Workers, carries wage increases of some $1,400,000 annualy for production men in the minimum pay bracket.

Richard W. Millar, Vultee president, said "it will take a little time to get the factory in shape for work resumption, but we probably can start some men back to work at once."

Other company representatives declared there would be no "mass re-employment."

"It will be a slow process," one of them said. "The men will be subjected to almost as close scrutiny as when they were originally employed."

Federal bureau of investigation agents, it was declared, will scrutinize returning workers closely to make sure that no spies effect entry into the plant.

Attorney General Jackson and Rep. Martin Dies, chairman of the congressional committee investigating subversive activities, have charged that "Communist influences" played a part in the walkout. The charges were denied by union officials.

Hailing the settlement as serving "to smash the 50-cent minimum in the aircraft industry," Wyndham Mortimer, international UAW representative, said: "It's our first major victory in the industry on the west coast."

Butler Looms as Leading County League Title Threat

Club Impressive In Walloping Hayesville Team

Bulldogs Smother Cage Foes, 55 to 23; Bellville Team Loses to Howard.

By CHARLES MARTIN

A NEW MENACE appeared today to threaten the title ambitions of eight other high school quintets in the Richland county basketball league.

It is the towering Butler high cage machine and it demonstrated last night that it will take a lot to keep the team out of the county throne room by dusting off Hayesville, 55 to 23, at Butler, in a non-league setto.

While the Bulldogs were enjoying a basket harvest, the defending championship Bellville high club dropped a 27 to 15 decision to Howard at Bellville.

* * *

Coach Bob Burgett's veteran Bulldog quintet rattled the backboards with deadly accuracy against Hayesville and secured a lead in the first period that was never seriously threatened.

* * *

Led by Capt. Dave Grubb, lanky center, the Butler outfit picked up an 8 to 1 advantage in the initial stanza, was ahead, 20 to 6, at the intermission and went into the final chapter sporting a 32 to 13 advantage.

Grubb, who missed numerous shots, collected 16 points, while Jack Wilson and Red Dalbey contributed 10 points apiece. Shanberger led the losers with nine points.

In the preliminary contest, the Butler reserves defeated the Hayesville second, 13 to 8.

Butler opens the 1940-41 league season by playing host to Ontario in one of the three circuit games on tap for followers Friday night.

It was a different story for Mentor Will Miley's Bluejays last night. Unable to locate the bucket in the first frame, the Bellville team fell behind and couldn't catch up.

Howard, using a veteran team, held an 8 to 7 lead at the end of the first stanza and then piled up a lead by whitewashing the Bluejays in the second heat. Howard tallied four points to hold a 12 to 7 advantage at halftime.

The Bluejays, who also won the county tournament championship, were behind, 20 to 12, as play was resumed in the final quarter.. Taggart led the winners with 13 points, while Edgerley was high for the Bluejays with six tallies.

Bellville entertains Lexington Friday night and Union invades Lucas in other league games. Shiloh, a new member of the circuit will play a twin-valley league foe. The Drummer boys meet North Fairfield at Shiloh.

We Can't Kick About This!

Here's a picture with a real "kick" in it. And very lovely football players if you ask us. The kicker is Mary Lee Winters, of the University of Oklahoma, easily an All-American co-ed, and her side-kick, Dorothy Lambert. The Oklahoma girls' team does not have any games scheduled because all "players" are all dated up and don't have the time.

Unbeaten Wittenberg Places Only One Man on U-P Team

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Wittenberg college's state championship football team placed only one man on the United Press all-Ohio selections for the first three teams.

Johnny Kostyo, Elyria senior, and leading scorer of the state, couldn't be kept off the first team, and was placed at a halfback position. The selections made on a poll of sports writers and coaches, indicated Wittenberg had a well-balanced team without individual stars.

Seven seniors, two juniors and two sophomores made up the first team. Al Borland, Western Reserve sophomore, was picked as the outstanding lineman of the state.

Scholes, Ohio university end, a former Mid-State league player from Danville, received honorable mention.

Coach Going Out?

Unconfirmed Reports Say Schmidt Will Not Be Rehired at State.

BULLETIN

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Athletic Director L. W. St. John of Ohio State university, today said "there is no foundation," for published reports that Francis A. Schmidt would not be rehired as football coach next year.

By JOHN H. COLBURN

COLUMBUS — (AP) — A famed exponent of football razzle dazzle, Ohio State's Francis A. Schmidt today is the center of a coaching job puzzle as dizzy as some of his pet plays.

* * *

After seven years at the Buckeye helm, the taciturn Texan will not be rehired as head football coach, according to the Ohio State Journal. Schmidt termed it a "cock and bull story."

But while university officials unanimously declared that there was no foundation for the report, none would say that he would be re-employed.

The Journal's story from an "unimpeachable source" climaxed a year of speculation and rumor, aired about the campus and among downtown coaches, that this would be Schmidt's last season no matter how the team finished.

And while Schmidt said he has no intention of resigning, and Athletic Director L. W. St. John and athletic board members were publicly silent on their plans, there already was talk of a new coach.

Jock Sutherland, former Pitt mentor now coaching Brooklyn's National league play-for-pay gridders, and Earl Blaik, who heads Dartmouth's Indians, were mentioned among Ohio's rabid fandom.

Blaik was understood to have been among coaches prominently considered before Schmidt brought his aerial circus and behind-the-line legerdemain here from Texas Christian.

The Journal said that the 10-member athletic board probably would not meet before Dec. 7.

It was considered certain that the board would consider published reports that school politics marred player harmony, that players did not train and that there was friction on the coaching staff.

Football experts also expressed belief that Schmidt's passion for intricate plays led to subordination of training in fundamentals with disastrous results in team performance.

Since coming to Ohio State, Schmidt's teams have won 39 games, lost 16 and tied one. The Bucks tied for the Western conference title once during that period and won it last year.

* * *

This year's team won four games and lost four for the worst season in 10 years.

In addition to a possible coaching shake-up, Ohio players were warned by 1941 Captain-elect Jack Stephenson that 'politics, gangs, favorites and everything else has got to be forgotten" and that players who "don't give everything they've got will be kicked off the team."

Rams Seek To Even Score With Famed Packers Sunday

CLEVELAND—In a wild and woolly battle that produced ten touchdowns, six points after touchdowns, and two field goals, the Rams went down to defeat before the crushing power of the mighty Chicago Bears Sunday, 47 to 25. A crowd of 21,000 rabid Bear fans watched the two clubs throw caution to the winds and march up and down the field with numerous long touchdown plays.

* * *

An aggregate total of 72 points made the game the highest scoring affair in the National league this season, and made it one of the highest in the league since its formation in 1919. The Rams' 25 points were the most scored in any game by them this season, yet they couldn't stave off defeat as their pass defense crumbled in the face of enemy heaves.

* * *

The Bear's victory enabled them to hold their one game lead over the Green Bay Packers in the Western Division, and assured them of at least a tie for the division championship. The Packers, who rolled over the Lions Sunday by a score of 50 to 7, play the Rams in Cleveland this coming Sunday and they need a victory while the Bears are losing to gain a tie with the Chicagoans.

Johnnie Drake, the Rams' bone-crushing fullback, brought his season point total to 50 with a first period touchdown in this wide-open battle, and practically cemented his bid for all-Pro honors. Drake played all but the last two minutes of the game and gained considerable yardage to entrench himself in second place in the league's individual ground gaining department.

The Rams game with the Packers in Cleveland's lakefront stadium Sunday will assume mammoth grudge battle proportions. It was early last month that the Rams journeyed to Green Bay to play the Packers, and it was a weary bunch of Rams that made the long trip home with a 31 to 14 defeat on their record.

* * *

The Cleveland professionals absorbed a physical beating that they thought was uncalled for, and they'll be in a vengeful mood when they meet their enemies on Dec. 1.

* * *

The Packers, on the other hand, will be out for the championship, and that means extra dollars and cents to a professional footballer, so they will be out to win no matter the cost. The Rams will be looked upon as a means to an end by the rampant Packers, while the Rams will be endeavoring to make it the end of the 1940 season for the Packers.

Sports Podge

to give all for that championship . . . and that's what makes a good fight.

* * *

The JAC boxing committee, headed by Jimmy Morgan, are planning extensive coverage of every town and city in the district to bring out talent.

There may be some youngster in an out-of-way corner who could win a championship and possibly a national title . . . and Morgan and his alert group will leave nothing undone in an effort to have the lad in the tourney.

Plans for the event were set up at the committee's dinner meeting at the Evergreens last night. . . . Guests of honor were Lou Bloom, of Cleveland, vice-chairman of the National associati, and Sam Otis, another Clevelander, director of the Northeastern Ohio district and sports editor of a Cleveland newspaper.

* * *

Lads winning titles in the JAC tourney automatically win a spot in the Cleveland affair. Most of them will not battle until the second night at Cleveland.

* * *

The JAC meet is open to boys in the open and novice divisions. Open division fighters are lads who have had more than five fights . . . while the novice is for youngsters who never fought or have been in the ring two or three times.

* * *

Interest is running high in Mansfield fight circles and everything points to a successful JAC tourney. . . . Two amateur shows are scheduled within a month and most of the boxers are sure to enter the meet. . . . The Friendly House card will be staged Friday night at the settlement and the Saprano-Doehla Athletic club will sponsor a simon-pure show Dec. 12.

* * *

Taken from here and there: The News Toyshop annual boxing show in Cleveland Monday night will be a classy one. . . . Among the boxers to appear are Jimmy Bivins, Cleveland middleweight, Pat Comiskey, Paterson, N. J., heavyweight and Arturo Godoy of Chile.

* * *

Mayor W. J. Locke will be the guest of Senator-elect Harold Burton at the Cleveland Ram-Green Bay Packer professional football game at the Stadium Sunday. . . . All the mayors in northern Ohio will watch the game from a special box section.

WALKER'S RECORD CLEAN, WINS DRAW WITH THOMAS

COLUMBUS—(AP)— Jack "Buddy" Walker is still undefeated but the Columbus heavyweight had to come from behind last night to gain a ten-round draw with Otis Thomas of Chicago.

Thomas threw everything but the floor at Walker in the first three rounds of their return match but the Ohio heavy came back strong to win enough of the remaining rounds to finish even. Their bout a month ago also ended in a draw.

SPORTS GOSSIP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK—We're back in the big city and hear Will Preston of Miami is in town. . . . Could it be to see whether Fordham will accept an Orange Bowl bid? They will, and how! . . . Sorry we arrived too late for that grand double-feature put on by Frank Phillips and his Oklahoma Oilers. . . . The Oilers won the basketball game, and "Uncle Frank" presided over a table of wild game from his Sooner ranch that the boys hereabouts won't forget for a long time. . . . It's a long way off, but don't be surprised if Buck Shaw pops up in Baton Rouge to take Bernie Moore's job at Louisiana State.

* * *

HEARD IN THE HUDDLE:

That Penn's Frank Reagan might have done much better against Michigan, if he hadn't gone into the game with a bad leg, about which the Quakers said nothing so there'd be no cries of "alibi."

* * *

And that the injury was aggravated by a twisting tackle within the first five minutes of play.... That Cornell started the Penn game with all six first and second stringers on the left side of the line banged up or out of it entirely. . . . All three Penn touchdowns went through that hole....That Francis Schmidt was giving his Ohio Staters new plays the day before they met Minnesota.

* * *

JUST A BOWL OF FOOTBALL

Penn, Cornell and Minnesota
All have answered with a "no."
But the Eagles and the Aggies
They'd surely like to go.
They'd take the Bowl of Roses,
Cotton, Orange, Sugar, Rice;
They'd play Tennessee or Stanford
And think it very nice.
Then there's Georgetown and there's Fordham,
Who would also like a game.
You name the trains, they'll board 'em.
Who wouldn't do the same?

* * *

Along golf's winter circuit, they're wondering whether Ben Hogan will be as tough to talk to as he was after leading last winter's money winners. . . . Tommy Harmon, who would rather be a sports announcer than a pro football player, is booked for two air engagements this week.

STORY TELLING DEPT.

Arch Ward of the Chicago Tribune has one of the prize yarns of the football season. It concerns two Iowa fans who wrote Coach Eddie Anderson suggesting that, since he was shy of ends, he shift Fullback Bill Green to that position.

The doctor thanked them for the idea, but pointed out it usually is difficult for a man to change to an unfamiliar position. . . . In the Wisconsin game, Green played fullback and scored three touchdowns. The two helpful alumni saw the game, then went home and wrote:

Selects Final Games

Barker Likes Texas Aggies In Top Contest Thursday; Names Stanford.

By HERB BARKER

THURSDAY

Texas-Texas A. and M.: The final hurdle for the unbeaten, untied Aggies. It's a long-standing jinx, but this corner believes finally the Aggies are going to make it.

* * *

Brown-Columbia: The Lions are just about football's leading opportunists. Therefore, Columbia.

South Carolina-Wake Forest: Wake Forest. Tulsa-Arkansas: Looks like the edge belongs to Tulsa. Citadel-Davidson: Out of the hat, Davidson. Kansas-Colorado State: Kansas.

SATURDAY

Army-Navy: One of Army's weakest teams, but that's no guarantee this won't develop into one of the tightest games of the year. We'll take Navy, but not by much.

California-Stanford: Last obstacle for Stanford's unbeaten, untied Indians, and it may be a tough one. Still, one vote for Stanford.

Boston College-Holy Cross: Doesn't seem to be much hope for Holy Cross.

Nebraska-Kansas State: Nebraska should clinch the Big Six crown here.

Duke-Pitt: Pitt is finishing strong, but — Duke. Duquesne-Carnegie: Duquesne. Fordham-New York university: Fordham.

Alabama-Mississippi State: State will need to be at its best if it wants to protect its undefeated record. Mississippi State.

Florida-Auburn: Florida. Georgia Tech-Georgia: The coin says Georgia. Louisiana State-Tulane: Tulane. Southern Methodist-Texas Christian: Methodists.

* * *

* * *

THEATERS

Ann Sothern Comedy.

Laughs are the keynote of the film showing at the Ohio where Ann Sothern, Ian Hunter, Roland Young, Reginald Gardiner and Billie Burke run through a whirlwind of comedy adventure in "Dulcy." Story of a madcap girl who tries to lend a helping hand to the affairs of her family and friends only to blunder up every situation, the new comedy gives the popular Miss Sothern a chance to depart from her familiar "Maisie" roles.

* * *

"Hollywood Hotel."

Today and tomorrow at the Madison "Hollywood Hotel" revue will be presented with a cast of 60. Outstanding of the numbers is the tribute paid to the Great Ziegfeld with hits from his great hits. Among the shows represented are "Whoopee," "Sally," "Three Musketeers," "Rio Rita" "Rosalie" and "Ole Man River" from the hit of all times, "Show Boat." On the screen is "Sandy Gets Her Man," gay comedy featuring Stuart Erwin and Una Merkel with Baby Sandy.

* * *

Charlie Chan Mystery.

Within 18 minutes Charlie Chan faces death four times by four different weapons in the mystery picture" Charlie Chan at the Wax Museum," with Sidney Toler in the title role. Chan escapes death at the hands of his unidentified assailant who tries vainly to kill him with a poison dart, a streaking bullet, a gleaming dagger and electric chair. Co-feature at the Ritz is "Love, Honor and Oh-Baby," with Wallace Ford, Donald Wood and Mona Barrie in the leading roles.

* * *

Factual Background

The picture "Young Tom Edison," showing at the Majestic, is based on true incidents in the life of Thomas Alva Edison. It briefly describes the story of a boy's triumph that of a non-conformist youth who was forced to battle against odds to achieve a start in life. Mickey Rooney has the title role, with Fay Bainter, Virginia Weidler and George Bancroft in the supporting roles. Second attraction is "It All Came True," the film taken from the Louis Bromfield novel, and which stars Ann Sheridan and Jeffrey Lynn with Humphrey Bogart in an important role.

* * *

Comedy and Western.

A hilarious mix-up over money provides the thematic basis of "Pop Always Pays," the comedy with Leon Errol heading the cast. Errol plays the part of the worried father, and Adele Pearce and Dennis O'Keefe are seen as the romantic young pair, with Marjorie Gateson as the wife of Errol. This and "Range Busters" are showing beginning Thursday at the Park. John King, Ray Corrigan and Max Terhune are in the cast.

Barons Attempt to Hit Winning Trail

PHILADELPHIA —(INS)— With one setback already suffered on their current road trip, the Cleveland Barons meet the Philadelphia Ramblers tonight in an attempt to start a new winning streak.

* * *

Moe Roberts, veteran Baron goalie, is not expected back for another ten days because of torn muscles in his right leg and Harvey Teno, drafted from Pittsburgh, will guard the net.

The Barons dropped a 4 to 2 game to Providence Sunday night, tackle Springfield tomorrow evening and Hershey on Saturday before returning to Cleveland Sunday to skate against Providence.

TRADERS PICK THEIR WAY IN TODAY'S MART

Falling Lower Were Steels and Oils; Commodities, Bonds Move In Both Directions.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Traders picked their way cautiously in the stock market today, but appeared to favor the selling side.

Moving lower by fractions to a point or so were U. S. Steel, Youngstown, Montgomery Ward, Standard Oil of N. J., DuPont and American Telephone.

Commodities moved in both directions at the opening, and the bond market followed a similar course.

Boardroom discussion continued to center on the progress of the defense program, with several overnight developments forming grist of the talk.

October foreign trade futures showed a sharp snap-back in exports from this country after a let-down in September. In this connection it was noted that the 16 per cent increase in outgoing shipments compared with September was accounted for mostly by manufactured goods, rather than the agricultural exports which usually rise at this time of year. This again emphasized the loss of farm markets resulting from the war.

GERMANS MAKE SUDDEN RAIDS

An official communique said there was slight enemy activity over Britain for several hours after nightfall, during which bombs were dropped chiefly on London, a western region and one point in the home counties near the capital. The attacks resulted in slight damage and few casualties, the air ministry stated.

The attack on the western city was carried out by raiders that dropped their bomb cargoes and then disappeared in shrouding mists before midnight. But the early hours of the morning found all England quiet owning to bad flying conditions.

(Berlin identified the attacked town as Bristol, which was raided for the fourth successive night.)

During the evening several bombs fell on London, causing some damage and casualties, and Liverpool also experienced an air raid alarm.

Meanwhile, British officials revealed that Southampton, important south coast port, was so badly damaged in a recent German raid that parts of the city were evacuated as uninhabitable. Thousands of incendiary bombs were dropped on the city, it was announced.

British authorities also permitted identification of Birmingham and Bristol as other cities bombed since the recent devastating attack on Coventry.

Turin Arsenal Again Attacked

LONDON—(AP)—British heavy bombers attacked the Italian royal arsenal at Turin last night, the air ministry reported today, and "greatly increased" the damage caused there in a raid Saturday night.

(Damage to buildings in the center and outskirts of Turin, Italy's leading industrial city, was acknowledged by the Italian communique today, but the arsenal was not mentioned among the targets.)

Roaring over Turin in "quick succession," the air ministry bulletin said, the British bombers found no clouds obstructing their views and "were able to pick out their objectives by various landmarks."

The first aircraft arrived just after 11 p. m., the ministry reported, and dropped high explosive and incendiary bombs, "which immediately started a number of fires."

Berlin Reports 'Slight Damage'

BERLIN—(U.P.)— British planes caused an air raid alarm in Berlin last night. An official communique said they had been turned back by anti-aircraft fire before reaching the center of the capital, but had caused "slight damage" to an airfield and houses in the outskirts.

Admits Lack of British Arms

LONDON—(AP)—Minister Without Portfolio Arthur Greenwood admitted in a debate on war production in the house of commons today that "we are far from being fully armed."

Greenwood, member of the war cabinet, however, went on to say that Britain's power was growing and would eventually triumph.

He replied to vigorous labor charges of government over-optimism, timidity and failure to mobilize the unemployed for a part in war production.

"At the risk of being accused of wishful thinking and of again being charged with belittling Hitler's resources, I still assert that our increasing production, in both quality and weight, will finally crush the might of the dictators."

Later Ernest Bevin, minister of labor, announced to commons that "between now and next June there will be another enormous call up" of Britain's manhood for the fighting services.

INTIMATE FRIEND OF BRITISH PRIME MINISTER ON PROGRAM

An intimate of Prime Minister Winston Churchill for a number of years, Louis J. Alber will speak on the "Incomparable Churchill" at the 21st annual club banquet of the Richland County Automobile club Friday at 6:15 p. m. at Mansfield-Leland hotel ballroom.

A student of economics, world affairs and business problems, Alber has known most of the famous men and women of the past 35 years. At one time in his career, he lived and worked with Churchill and in his lecture he will attempt to give the "human" side of the prime minister.

From 1933 to 1938, Alber held a number of posts in the Roosevelt administration and has been a friend of every president since Theodore Roosevelt.

In addition to Alber's speech, a vaudeville and floor show will be presented during the evening by the Music Corporation of America with Bob Richards and his Westinghouse orchestra furnishing the music.

Reservations will be limited to 240 and are now on sale at the Richland County Automobile club offices, 56 North Mulberry street, and at the office of William R. Morris, Shelby mayor.

EARLY TOOTER

LUBBOCK, Tex.—(INS)—"Practice hours, 5 to 6," read the sign on the door of a music practice shack, near the women's dormitory at Texas Technological College in Lubbock. The day after school opened, co-eds were awakened at 5 a. m. by an ambitious freshman running the scales on a trumpet—and the tooting continued for exactly an hour. The music staff had failed to specify "p. m." on its sign.

IRON GUARDIST FIRING SQUAD STAGES PURGE

64 Political Prisoners Shot Down at Tomb of Former Rumanian Leader.

(This indicated that the government might disavow responsibility for the executions although the Iron Guard is the chief power in Rumania.)

Others shot included Moruzow, chief of Carol's secret police, and Gen. Gabriel Marinescu, former police president of Bucharest and former interior minister under Argeseanu, the news agency said. During their regime, Iron Guardists were executed all over Rumania for the assassination of Premier Armand Calinescu, Sept. 21, 1939. Argeseanu succeeded Calinescu.

The agency said the shootings took place at 1:30 a. m. at the prison. Later, it said, Iron Guardists and policemen appeared at the homes of numerous supporters of the Carol regime and arrested them.

The Iron Guard's cause celebre was the execution on Nov. 30, 1938, of its "fuehrer," Corneliu Zelea Codreanu, along with 13 other Iron Guardists. It was announced by Carol's government that they had "tried to escape" while being moved from the prison at Jihlava, and had been shot by their guards. Iron Guard spokesmen charged that the 14 prisoners were bound hand and foot when they were shot, and that their bodies were dumped into an unmarked grave inside the Jihlava fortress.

Codreanu was serving 10 years for conspiring with a "foreign power" and incitement to revolt. His 13 slain companions included three convicted of assassinating Premier Ion Duca on Dec. 30, 1933, and 10 convicted of murdering Mihail Stelescu, a "back-sliding" Iron Guardist, who was riddled with bullets while lying in a hospital recovering from an operation.

In retaliation for the Codreanu slaying, Iron Guardists assassinated Premier Arman Calinescu, Sept. 21, 1939. The retaliation of the government was a massacre. Nine suspected assassins were taken to the spot on Boulevard Carol II where Calinescu fell, and were shot. Their bodies were left all day in the street. Then Iron Guardists were executed summarily all over the country. Reports in some European countries placed the number at more than 300.

George Argeseanu had been premier when Codreanu and his 13 followers were slain. With the assassination of Calinescu, Carol appointed him premier again and immediately, Iron Guardists were executed all over the country. He was one of those reported purged at Jihlava today. His arrest had been announced at Bucharest Nov. 18. The announcement said he was accused of the "commission of a crime."

The same warrant named Col. Dan Capascu, former chief of military censorship. And in the same round-up, G. T. Sidorvichi, former head of Carol's youth movement, who visited Berlin and Rome attending youth celebrations last year, was taken prisoner. It was announced Nov. 22 that Sidorvichi had committed suicide while under arrest.

Ion Gigurtu, one of those arrested today, was Rumania's last premier before Carol called in Gen. Ion Antonescu Sept. 4, and turned over the government to him, preparatory to abdication. Antonescu is the present "strong man," who last week signed a pact with the Axis powers.

Antonescu was not an Iron Guardist and he permitted Carol, Madame Lupescu and Ernest Urdareanu, Carol's lord chamberlain, to flee Bucharest after the abdication. An Iron Guard party waylaid the train before it crossed the Rumanian border and riddled it with machine gun fire. Since the arrival of Carol's party in Spain, Antonescu's government has demanded the return of Madame Lupescu and Urdareanu for trial and has succeeded in keeping all three in Spain, where, it has been reported, they are virtually under arrest.

SEVEN ARRESTED IN POLICE RAID

Seven men were arrested yesterday afternoon when police raided a house at 272 North Franklin street, and took in custody the proprietor and six others.

Two charges were placed against Anderson Chick, colored. They were harboring disorderly persons and pawn broking without a license. He appeared in municipal court this morning and asked for a continuance. His case was set for Dec. 9.

The other six were charged with intoxication. Two of them, Roy Grubaugh and Harry O'Donnell, were fined $40 and costs and sentenced to Columbus workhouse, while the other four were given fines of $5 and costs.

MEDITERRANEAN BATTLE WAGED AT LONG RANGE

ambushed mountain roads and passes at altitudes up to 6,000 feet.

It was claimed also that Greek troops which during the week-end occupied Moskopolis, northwest of Koritza, continued to advance slowly last night, occupying the village of Sipska, three miles north of Moskopolis. It was said that the Greeks also had captured a hill, helping them to hamper the Italian flight.

Greeks Claim Further Advance

ATHENS —(INS)— Continued advances in Albania were claimed by the Greek high command today while military quarters predicted that Hellenic forces may break through the Italian lines between Durazzo and Valona.

(Editor's note: The London Daily Herald reported from Athens that Italy is rushing heavy reinforcements to Albania under strong escorts, including dive bombers, in an effort to stem the Fascist retreat.)

Latest reports to Athens said that scattered groups of Italians, particularly in the Koritza region, were being driven from their hiding places in the woods by hunger and that they were surrendering in large numbers to the Greeks.

In some sectors, it was added, Italian rear guard units were offering stubborn resistance, while the weather hampered operations.

(Editor's note: A Reuters (British) dispatch from Athens claimed that "in general the Italians are acquiring the habit of defeat.")

The high command war communique said:

"Movement of our army continues with success on Albanian soil.

"In the neighborhood of Koritza, six airplanes abandoned by the Italians fell into our hands, along with other booty.

"Enemy aircraft displayed some activity on the front, and bombed 10 villages in the Epirus. Other Italian planes bombed the island of Corfu and Cephalonia but hit no military objectives."

Report British Warships Bombed

ROME—(INS)—Six British warships were hit when Italian warplanes bombed the naval base at Alexandria on Nov. 9, the Fascist high command announced today.

Italian squadrons also rained heavy calibre bombs on the Alexandria docks of the Suez Canal company, the announcement said.

The communique gave no further details of the attack.

The high command also reported that during the night British planes bombed Turin in northern Italy.

OBTAIN STOCK

Richland Farmers Take Over Production Credit Issues.

Farmers in Richland and nearby counties today had taken over a large part of the stock of the Ashland Production Credit association after $26,000 of the association's capital was repaid to the Production Credit Corporation of Louisville and the federal government.

H. G. Olin, Ashland, secretary-treasurer of the association pointed out that the federal corporation still has $139,000 invested in the non-voting capital stock of the association.

When the Ashland association was organized in 1934 all of the capital was provided by congress through the Production Credit corporation. Local farmers who obtained loans for operating their farms purchased small amounts of voting stock until the total now owned by them aggregates $41,645.

Besides being able to retire $26,600 of the stock owned by the Production Credit corporation the association has accumulated a reserve of $27,519, Olin said.

Conduct 'Evaluation' at Senior High

Mansfield Senior high school was "putting its best foot forward" today as more than 50 leading Ohio educators continued their "evaluation" study of the school. Beginning yesterday and continuing through today, the educators have been visiting class rooms, interviewing pupils, and inspecting equipment at the school. At top is shown Miss Edith M. Keller, extreme right, state department of education, interviewing pupils in a class room. BANQUET HELD FOR EDUCATORS

200 Present at Event Honoring School Officials Making Evaluation Study.

More than 200 persons crowded the Mansfield Senior high school cafeteria last night to honor the 50 Ohio educators who have been conducting an evaluation study of the school during the past few days.

Educators from Ohio state university, Bowling Green, Toledo university, Western Reserve university, Kent State university, Akron college, principals and subject specialists from Ohio high schools, and parents attended the banquet.

Principal speakers were Louis Bromfield; Harold W. Arlin, president of the board of education; Ralph Damlos, president of the Senior high school Parent-Teachers association; and Dr. E. H. Eickenberry, department of education, Ohio State university.

During the banquet the Mansfield Senior high school orchestra and A Cappella choir entertained the gathering. Supt. W. A. Miller acted as master of ceremonies.

Arriving in Mansfield Monday, the educators have been visiting class rooms, interviewing teachers and pupils, and inspecting equipment at the school. From the data collected by their study, the educators will attempt to evaluate the school and set up criteria for judging secondary schools.

Attending the evaluation and banquet last night were also a number of educators from Ashland, including Supt. J. E. Hohn, Principal S. F. Jameson, A. B. Gorsuch, Ray Bellou, Sidney Boyd and Miss Norma Kirkendall.

LIQUO RBOARD REVOKES PERMIT

The state board of liquor control today revoked the high-powered beer and wine permit of T. P. Stumboff, 244 North Main street, after finding him guilty of illegal possession of whisky and selling on Sunday, a press dispatch from Columbus said.

The board dismissed similar charges against Tom Georgeff, 284 North Main street. Georgeff operates the International restaurant at the North Main street address, while Stumboff is proprietor of the Olympia restaurant, 244 North Main street.

PARACHUTE TROOPS TRAINED BY U. S. AT FORT BENNING

FORT BENNING, Ga.—(AP)— Sixteen athletic young soldiers tumbling in unison like circus clowns at the command of an instructor attest that the army's new parachute battalion means business.

They are being trained strenuously by gymnastic exercises for a spectacular military role such as played by the vanguard of the Nazi invaders of the Netherlands.

Members of the group went through drills to harden their muscles and teach them how to avoid injuries on landing, while a youthful officer described to visiting newsmen the progress made by the 501st parachute battalion in the few weeks since its formation.

Lieut. William T. Ryder of St. Louis reported that the unit of 15 officers and 412 enlisted men, all volunteers, already had a waiting list.

A 900-acre tract for practice landings adjacent to Lawson Field is being cleared and is expected to be ready for use by the first of the year. A 350-foot tower for nephytes is to be erected.

Meanwhile, at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, experiments are going forward to transport heavily armed air infantry to reinforce the parachutists after capture of a behind the lines position.

Lieutenant Ryder acted as spokesman in the absence of Major William H. Miley, battalion commander, who broke an arm last week in an experiment to determine how heavy a load of arms might safely be carried by a trooper from a plane speeding 300 feet above the ground.

Lieutenant Ryder said he was convinced that a parachutist was not as vulnerable to "parashooters" as might be supposed. In the 40 or 50 seconds he is floating to the ground he "is in full possession of his faculties" and able to use pistol and grenade.

"I don't think our men will be bothered by farmers with pitchforks," he observed.

FIRE WATER

FREEPORT, Ill.—(AP)— Policeman John Feld had to double as a fireman in arresting a man on a charge of drunkenness. He found the man's tie ablaze, apparently from sparks falling from a cigaret. Feld splashed a glass of water on it, took his prisoner to the station where he was booked as "being drunk and on fire."

AFL STICKS TO LABOR'S RIGHT OF BARGAINING

Hits Hillman Appointment In Outlining Patriotic Defense Policy.

(By International News Service)

NEW ORLEANS, La.—The right of labor to bargain collectively, even under wartime conditions, was adopted as the fixed policy of the American Federation of Labor in its 60th annual convention in New Orleans today.

In outlining its own policy on national defense, the AFL struck, inferentially, at the appointment of Sidney Hillman to the national defense advisory council. The "A. F. of L. was not requested to name representatives to the advisory council on national defense," the report said. "It is regrettable that this was not done."

Pledging its wholehearted support to national defense, the AFL nevertheless maintained that "we must not destroy the soul of what we would defend," and said:

"The right to collective bargaining, whether the employer is a private individual or the government, must be preserved."

The report outlining defense policy was given unanimous approval after the convention endorsed a report "favoring the extension of all help and assistance possible to Great Britain in her hour of need, on the part of our government, short of war itself."

ASKS RENEWAL OF CONTRACT

General Hospital Staff Would Renew Pact With City at Present Rate.

Request for renewal of its yearly contract with General hospital staff physicians, providing for medical and surgical attention for indigent patients was placed before city officials today.

In a letter to Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton the physicians asked for a contract renewal for 1941 on the same basis as the one entered into early this year.

Dr. Charles R. Keller, appointed by the staff to negotiate for the contract, submitted the proposal to city officials.

The contract under which the doctors now perform all medical and surgical care of city indigents hospitalized for treatment calls for a $5,000 annual fee.

It is expected council will agree on the renewal of the contract, setting up the amount to pay the bill when it drafts the annual appropriation measure early in January.

Sabotage Hampers German Army Operations In Norway

NAZIS SENDING BIG UNITS TO COMBAT NORSE

Mysterious Landslides In Mountains Disrupt Transportation.

(By United Press)

STOCKHOLM, Sweden — Germany sent large units of troops and armored trucks into western and southern Norway today where martial law had been declared to combat sabotage to vital communications with Nazi naval and air bases along the north Atlantic coast.

Press dispatches from Oslo reported that many "mysterious" mountain landslides had occurred in Western Norway in the last two weeks, disrupting transport on the railroads and highways Germany uses to supply her Norwegian bases.

Principal acts of sabotage were said to have taken place in Vestlandet province and occupation forces were hastily reinforced. The railroad between Oslo and Bergen, most important in the country, was wrecked in at least 10 points, it was said. Many highways leading from Oslo to Vestlandet province likewise were destroyed at a number of points. Stone and iron bridges were destroyed and telephone service between Oslo and Vestlandet was interrupted.

It was understood here that German authorities had arrested a number of persons whom they considered leaders in sabotage. The reports indicated that the landslides were the first phase of a large scale sabotage to harrass the German forces of occupation as well as disrupt the supplying of Nazi air bases on the west coast from where German planes reoprtedly have been taking off to bomb British cities and towns. It was recalled that the British Royal Air Force recently reported a severe bombing on the German airport at Stavanger, Norway.

When the landslides had wiped out many stretches of the Oslo-Bergen railroad and adjoining highways, German authorities had a hasty consultation and ordered soldiers to patrol all stretches still open to traffic to prevent further sabotage. It was understood that repairs to the road so that traffic can be resumed would not be completed for several weeks.

Numerous arrests were reported in Vestlandet where at least 10 houses were destroyed after violent dynamite explosions, according to the reports.

The outbreak of organized sabotage followed three weeks of intermitent resistance to the "new Norwegian order" of Vidkun Quisling German-appointed "gauleiter" for Norway. Various speakers of the Nasjonal Samling, Quisling's parliament, had been booed at public meetings.

Liner Patria Refugees Swim To Nearby Breakwater.

JERUSALEM —(U.P.)— Most of 1,800 Jewish refugees aboard the liner Patria, which sank after an explosion in Haifa harbor Monday, were saved, dispatches from Haifa reported today.

Many of those aboard the Patria swam to a nearby breakwater. Some were injured but they were taken ashore quickly and were treated in government hospitals or by the Jewish Hadassah organization.

The refugees from the vessel were being removed to a British colony for duration of the war.

Jury Convenes to Investigate 24 Cases In 2 Days

With 24 cases scheduled for hearing in two days, the Richland county grand jury began its first session in the September court term at 10 a. m. today after the opening was delayed for another hour while three replacement jurors were found.

Unable to serve on the jury because of illness or other duties, Charles Arting and Thomas Geddes, Mansfield, and Walter McAuley, Butler, were excused. They were replaced by Fred Sutcliffe, Otto Wiles, and A. E. Swain, all of Mansfield.

Heading the list of cases is an investigation of the alleged illegal circulation of copies of official party ballots as samples in behalf of County Recorder Howard Wenning for clerk of courts before the Nov. 5 election.

Among the witnesses called in the ballot investigation were Wenning, who was elected clerk of courts, and A. F. Porter, former clerk of the board of elections. The case is scheduled for hearing tomorrow.

Harry Norton, Mansfield, one of the 47 witnesses subpoenaed to testify before the jury, was stricken with a heart attack while waiting in the courthouse lobby this morning. He revived shortly and was taken into Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston's office to rest.

Pennies and Nickels From Parking Meters

If T. R. Patterson, teller at the Mansfield Savings Trust National bank, saw pennies and nickles in his sleep last night, there was a reason. Patterson is shown above with the coin containers that were taken from 412 parking meters yesterday, the city's first "take" from its new meters. There were 20,700 pennies and 5,289 nickles — not to mention 32 dimes which may or may not have worked in the penny and nickel machines. Anyway they all totalled $477, which with the $109 taken in on traffic tickets netted the city $586 for the first three days the machines were in operation on downtown streets.

WAIT DECISION IN TAX ACTION

Attorneys Argue Exemptions In Law Suit Involving Black Estate.

Attorneys in tax cases involving the estates of the late Frank B. Black of Mansfield, Kate Hannah Harvey of Cleveland, and Harry Coulby of Lake county argued before the Ohio Supreme court yesterday that the immunity sections of the classification tax law are constitutional and back taxes cannot be legally collected from the estates.

The court took the testimony under advisement and is expected to hand down a decision within a few days.

On the decision will rest the possible collection of several hundreds of thousands of dollars in personal taxes on the estates for the period from 1926 to 1930 when the immunity clause exempted certain personal properties from taxation.

The Fifth district appeals court last year ordered County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe to assess taxes against the Black estate, but before the order could be carried out, attorneys for the estate obtained a stay of execution from the Supreme court.

The Supreme court heard the appeal last April, but the death of Judge George S. Myers, member of the court, before a decision was reached, forced re-hearing of the evidence.

Representing the Black estate were Attys. W. M. Weldon, Mansfield, and Luther Day, Cleveland. Atty Joseph A. Bayer, Mansfield, and the firm of Hart, McHenry and Jones of Canton, are counsel for Michael Hallabrin of Mansfield who brought the taxpayer's suit involving the estate.

PARKING METERS BRING IN $477 IN COINS AND $109 IN TICKETS

The most optimistic estimate of the amount of money that the new parking meters would bring into city coffers is likely to be doubled or more if the meters maintain the average set up the first three days of their use.

The first three days brought in $586 of which $477 was from the meters for parking time and $109 in traffic fines for violations of the new parking meter regulations. The latter amount will go into the general city fund, while the former remains in the traffic fund, according to Police Chief Meade K. Bates.

Bates said today that while the infractions would decrease as motorists become familiar with the use of the meters and the regulations governing them, the use of the meters would increase according to the experiences of other cities with meters.

When the question of meters was first discussed it was estimated that they probably would bring in a revenue of about $22,000 a year, or more than $70 a day for the 300 days of the year they are in use.

If the average of the first three days should be an indication of the daily revenue throughout the 300 days of each year, the income from meters and parking tags might conceivably be more than twice the original estimate.

Bates said that yesterday's ice storm provided as severe a test as the meters would encounter in a year. The meters were coated with ice and the coin slots and handles covered with it, but it was easily cracked off by hitting it with the hand and by turning the handle. He expressed the belief that if the meters had been the automatic type and had been covered with ice, they could not have been used until the ice melted out of the coin slot.

Seventy-one tickets were issued yesterday for meter violations, most of them for overtime parking.

GIVE PROGRAM

Senior High Pupils Entertained By Song and Dance Unit.

An assembly program featuring the famous Merhoff quartet, a song and dance unit, was staged in the Mansfield Senior high school auditorium yesterday morning.

Star of the company was Ruth Pryor, former ballerina of the Chicago Civic Opera company. Walter Merhoff, manager of the group, acted as master of ceremonies.

Composed of music from opera, musical comedies, and concert stage, the program was sponsored by the School Assembly service and was offered to students owning activity books.

This morning a one-act comedy, with Ada Mae Harbaugh and Charles Palmer offering humorous declamations before and after the play, was presented in the auditorium by students of G. P. Van Arnam's one-act play class.

Included in the cast were Lois Curry, Barbara Hansberger, Eileen Lawrence, Lee Adams, and Morton Frankel. G. P. Van Arnam directed the production.

Ask Council to Annex Liberty Park Property

Mansfield's corporation line will be extended for the first time in years if city council takes action Tuesday night on a measure placed in the legislative hopper today.

Approval of the measure, however, will mean little to the city in the way of added tax valuation since the property involves mostly the annexation of public property.

It includes nearly 21 acres of Liberty park land already owned by the city northeast of Mansfield along Grace street.

The annexation is being considered at the request of the Liberty Park [illegible] to provide police protection at the park. It is the only city park now outside the city and Mansfield officers have no jurisdiction outside the corporation.

LOGAN-WALTER ACTION ASKED BY ADVOCATES

House Endorsement of Senate Changes Sought Although Veto Predicted.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Encouraged by a surprisingly sudden senate victory, Logan-Walter bill advocates today strove to hasten final congressional action by asking the house to accept bodily all senate changes in the measure.

Rep. Walter (D., Pa.), requested that the senate amendments be submitted to the house for approval when it reconvenes tomorrow.

Senate Democratic Leader Barkley, who predicted that President Roosevelt would veto the controversial measure, said he believed the Senate would sustain the president in that event.

Barkley opened the way for the bill's 27-to-25 victory in the senate yesterday when he abruptly abandoned his previous strategy of delay and said he was ready for a showdown vote.

Passed last spring by the house and subsequently revamped in some major respects by the senate judiciary committee, the measure would set up uniform standards of conduct for many quasi-judicial government bureaus, with such notable exceptions as the interstate commerce commission, trade commission, lending agencies and others.

It would broaden the base for appeals from decisions of the affected agencies, but as amended by the senate, would limit such appeals to parties having a substantial interest in the case in point.

With this measure temporarily out of the way, the senate agreed informally to take three-day recesses until it had business before it and none seemed to be in prospect.

TAKES OFFICE

Dr. Wolford Assumes Duties as State Dental Head.

Dr. W. H. Wolford, Mansfield dentist, was to take office today as president of the Ohio Dental society at the conclusion of the organization's annual convention in Cincinnati.

Dr. Wolford said the society will adopt an "elastic program to meet national defense needs."

The society's house of delegates yesterday suspended payment of dues for members called into the U. S. military service.

Elected last November, Dr. Wolford will succeed Dr. Van B. Dalton of Cincinnati as head of the society. Dr. Edward E. Ball of Cincinnati is the new president-elect of the society and will become president next November.

CHARGED REDUCED

A charge of driving while intoxicated, filed by highway patrol officers Nov. 9 against Tolly Biddle, Garfield place, today was reduced to careless and reckless driving. Biddle had pleaded innocent to the first charge but entered a plea of guilty this morning to the lesser one. He was fined $25 and costs.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 27, 1940.

Some folks never seem to realize that the Golden Rule is nonpartisan.

At least some gesture of "aid to Greece" would surely be in order—say a rowboat and a BB gun.

It does seem, after all, that congress might be permitted to adjourn around December 20 for the year-end holidays—congressmen should be allowed to get away from themselves for a little while.

When Britain Asks for Credit

WILL United States "aid to Britain" stop when Great Britain reaches the end of her ability to pay cash for planes, munitions and other war supplies needed, and which this country is able to supply?

That question has already arisen and will require an answer very soon, as Britain is running short of assets in this country, according to Lord Lothian, British ambassador to Washington.

First barriers to credit sales to Britain are the Johnson and Neutrality acts, which place war exports on a "cash and carry" basis, and which would require amending before actual credit could be extended to any foreign nation at war.

Senator Johnson, stalwart isolationist, has already given notice that he will strongly oppose any attempt to repeal or weaken that provision and he would probably be joined by a group of senators who argue that such action would be a further step toward American involvement in war.

While, in the final analysis, there is no doubt that the United States will continue its "aid to Britain" in every possible way—on the theory that defeat of the Axis powers is essential to self-preservation—there are several things worthy of consideration before Great Britain is accorded credit in the purchase of war supplies in this country.

Not to be forgotten, in passing, is Great Britain's unpaid debt to the United States of more than five billion dollars, as a hangover from the first World war, which, on the face of it, establishes that country as a bad credit risk.

It should also be kept in mind that while Great Britain may now be short on ready cash in this country, with which to pay for war supplies, there is still a substantial British gold reserve in the United States, as well as several billion dollars worth of British-owned stocks, bonds and other securities, subject to disposition by that government and which should become available for use as collateral in advance of direct credits.

While matters of this sort are naturally in the hands of financial experts for consideration and eventual decision, it has been suggested as feasible that the United States government might advance funds equal to the present value of British-owned American securities, rather than that these securities be dumped on the market, with probably disrupting effects.

Under such a proposal it would appear practicable to establish a commission of three members—one representative each of the United States and Great Britain and a third chosen by these two to act with them.

Such a commission would be in charge of the securities upon which the loan would be made and be vested with authority to hold or dispose of stocks or bonds, as deemed advisable.

After these limits of British assets have been reached, and converted into payment for war supplies, the matter of extending credit without security will be much more appealing.

But whether on terms of cash or credit, majority opinion in the United States obviously favors continuance of "aid to Britain" as an essential part of the national defense program.

Trouble-Makers Forfeit Liberties

FIFTH COLUMN activities have been aided by American principles of civil liberty. Freedom of speech, press and assembly are so important to Americans that they have been unwilling to curtail them, or to establish any precedent which might later serve to hamper these liberties.

Under this system, which seems to the Nazis a rather silly and easy-going tolerance, Nazi propaganda flourishes. It pours out of 17 Battery Place in great quantities. Consular agents and other diplomatic officials, bound, one might suppose, by honor, not to disturb the government of any country in which they are serving, apparently have been working night and day to make present and future trouble for the United States. Honor seems not to be part of the Nazi ideology, and our sacred civil liberties have done the rest. There seemed no way out short of a war declaration and for that Americans are more reluctant than for anything else.

At last, however, a loophole may have been found. It consists in freezing all Axis funds in the United States. In that case, funds here could not be drawn upon without showing books and proving what the money was to be used for.

If this can be done, it will at least provide a brake on expenditure of the large sums now being used for subversive purposes.

Obligations of a 'Good Neighbor'

THERE are almost as many views of South America's attitude toward this country as there are people expressing them. We hear one day that Argentina, or some other Latin-American republic, does not want to play ball with the United States. The next day it appears that mutual needs are recognized and real cooperation is greatly desired.

There is doubtless a grain of truth in each view. The effort to understand our neighbors in this hemisphere is still too new to have risen above the many years of ignorance, indifference and occasional [illegible]

There is probably more truth in the second view. Though the other Pan American republics may differ from us in many ways, they are [illegible] to let any aggressor gain a foothold in this hemisphere. They freed themselves from the tyranny of Spain many years ago and have no intention now of submitting to fresh tyranny from any source. As fast as they become convinced that the United States, in its good neighbor policy, does not wish to circumscribe their full sovereignty, they will themselves become good neighbors.

Our astronomical reporter tells us that Mercury has crossed the sun for the last time until 1953—so that's taken care of for awhile.

Right after the election a big wind came along—so the campaign speeches were scarcely missed.

SUPPOSE you'd tangled with the law and had served, or were still serving, your sentence.

WOULD YOU HAVE A RIGHT TO ENLIST IN THE FIGHT TO SAVE AMERICA?

Is it fair to refuse the services of these men? Thousands of convicts are asking that question today. We've been swamped with letters on this question. All of them were united on one point: there should be no enlistment for the insane, incompetent or degenerate. But how about those men who were obviously of good human material . . . men who were willing to die for decency and democracy if need be?

IS IT BETTER TO LET SUCH MEN ROT IN A PRISON CELL AT SOCIETY'S EXPENSE OR LET THEM PAY THEIR DEBT IN NATIONAL SERVICE.

An overwhelming majority of free men, as well as convicts, voted for the Army! And I, though I'm no "sob sister" and have no sentimental illusions about crime or criminals, voted with them.

From "The Represa Sport-Telegram," written by convicts in Folsom, California, comes one of the most eloquent of these pleas, written by Bud Murphy. Unfortunately, space forbids printing in full, but even the abbreviated text arouses American instinct for fair play.

"Remember one of Canada's famous regiments in the first World War?" he asks. "There wasn't a traitor or a panty-waist among them. They made fighting history, and the world, in turn, made heroes of them. Nothing was too good for them. Their courage became a legend. YET MANY OF THOSE SAME HEROES HAD PRISON RECORDS!

"They were men who had suffered from crime and neglect in their youth . . . they were outcasts, shunned by respectable society. Liberty was far dearer to them than to most of their comrades. Yet they willingly risked their lives for their country. They weren't conscripted; they volunteered. And few of them ever returned.

"It happened then; it can happen now! American ideals persist inside prison walls as without. We sing the national anthem with as deep sincerity these days as our free brothers.

"It is true that most of us have taken the easy way in a tough struggle for existence, but we're still men, still Americans, even if we do wear numbers. And we cry out for a chance to risk that manhood in the defense of our country and those we love.

"GIVE US THAT CHANCE, AMERICA! Let those of us who are fit repay our debt and regain our self-respect, even though we die in doing it.

"And let me add something that thousands of men like myself are saying—God bless those who dare to believe in us."

BUD MURPHY.

Thanks for the blessing, Bud. And here goes a prayer that your own brave words may open steel doors on a new and nobler adventure for THE MEN WHO WANT TO COME BACK!

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—If you are interested in watching the transformation of a Broadway playwright into a man of national affairs, keep your eyes on Robert Emmet Sherwood. He may not recognize this fact himself, but as sure as sunrise with each passing day his interests are carrying him farther and farther into the tide of world events.

As a charter member and a coworker with William Allen White on the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies he has been labeled by some as an interventionist. These persons say his aim, and the aim of other members and workers of the committee, is ultimate active participation in the war by the side of Great Britain.

But as long ago as 1935, when he wrote "Idiot's Delight," Mr. Sherwood said: "Let me express here the conviction that those who shrug and say 'war is inevitable' are false prophets. I believe that the world is populated largely by decent people, and decent people don't want war. They fight and die, to be sure, but that is because they have been deluded by their exploiters, who are members of the indecent minority."

* * *

THE Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, particularly since both presidential candidates urged the utmost in aid during the recent campaign, enjoys greater prestige now than at any previous moment since its beginning. More and more Sherwood himself has been ascending the speaker's platform. Canadian and American audiences are familiar with his views, which express the opinion that freedom is a right, not a privilege, and that we ourselves will be safe from the tides of totalitarianism so long as Britain, serving as a sea-wall, continues to stand. These views are in themselves a re-expression of the Sermon on the Mount. He previously has said it all, and well, in "There Shall Be No Night."

This play is about the Finnish war. The idea came to him during a Christmas Eve broadcast in 1939. He wrote it swiftly, within a few weeks, and it came to Broadway. It now is on a tour and will come back to Broadway in the spring.

* * *

THE opinion already has been expressed that on certain issues the William Allen White committee may be used as a sounding board to test public opinion. It has been urged that Mr. Sherwood go into politics. One political essayist even has said that Sherwood would make good presidential timber.

I personally do not believe Mr. Sherwood has any idea ever of exposing himself to the ballot box. But I do believe without question the days ahead will find him moving up and down the land crying his convictions.

If Britain holds fast, his place in American life will be more than just that of an eminent playwright whose dramas have translated the trends of the times. His tall lengthy figure the is 6 feet, 7) may well cast a longer shadow across the course of events than even his friends or his enemies surmise.

Another Crook To Prison.

Another of Huey Long's pals in corruption is going to federal prison. Seymour Weiss, New Orleans hotel executive and the late Louisiana dictator's most intimate political associate, has pleaded guilty and has been sentenced to four years behind the bars. The four-year sentence is based on three charges of income tax evasion and one of federal oil law violation, but for the first 30 months, Weiss will also be paying the penalty for using the mails to defraud in connection with the gross corruption at Louisiana State university.

Crime still does not pay. One by one, its perpetrators get their desserts, in Louisiana no less than in other places.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Defense Work Must Be Speeded, Commission Lacks Real Powers

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Last week Bernard Baruch, silver-haired head of the World War Industries Board of 1917-18, attended a meeting of the National Defense Commission of 1940 and gave a little talk on its work. In a fatherly way, he read his listeners a pointed lecture on the key weakness of the defense machinery.

Insiders long have known that this weakness was a too wide diffusion of authority and lack of co-ordination in administration.

"You have done a good job," Baruch said, "and deserve the thanks of the country. But bluntly, gentlemen, it still is far short of what has to be done. The simple fact is that neither present production nor plans for future output are meeting our defense needs and the requirements of the British.

"You must remember that the Axis is organizing the whole economic might of Europe and Russia for a final conquering blow. What we do this winter to prepare for that onslaught will decide the fate of Britain and our country next spring. It is a lot later and the situation far more desperate than you may realize.

"The people of the country are behind you and they want more to be done. They want the United States to arm to the hilt and to give the utmost material aid to Britain. There is no question about that. And you must never forget that the United States today is the only country in the world that has an industrial system capable of producing simultaneously both for defense and consumer needs.

"The defense program, if wisely planned and efficiently directed, not only can save democracy from the totalitarian aggressors but also from the internal enemies of depression and unemployment. But that can't be done at the leisurely pace we are now going."

Penetrating as it was, Baruch's talk missed the target in one major respect. The one man, above all others, who should have heard it was not present.

He is the president of the United States, who has the responsibility and the power to act.

* * *

Defense Weaknesses.

THE PRESIDENT is fully informed of what is going on abroad, and the weaknesses of the Defense Commission have repeatedly been called to his attention by officials whom he trusts.

Briefly summarized, here are some of the major defects in the National Defense Advisory Commission and its cooperation with the army which have been called to Roosevelt's attention:

1. The Defense Commission is an advisory body. It was created by executive order and has no statutory status, no real powers. Its chief functions are to ensure raw materials, help find factory production, guarantee labor standards, and protect the consumer. But the army and navy can ignore its advice—unless the president personally intervenes, and obviously it is impossible for him to keep an eye on everything.

2. Even within the Defense Commission itself, the organization is nebulous. Each of the seven commissioners is independent of the others. Labor Commissioner Sidney Hillman can put through a set of labor principles and even have them accepted by the White House, but these principles may be completely ignored by Production Commissioner Knudsen.

3. Much of the Defense Commission's organization is duplicated by the army, which also has set up a huge supply machinery. Part of this probably is necessary, since the Defense Commission only passes upon orders over $500,000, but unquestionably there is jealousy between the army and the Defense Commission.

4. Toward the end of the election campaign, many of the Defense Commission's staff, composed largely of Willkie boosters, became engulfed in a vacuum of uneasiness and uncertainty. Apparently they were confident that Willkie would win, and some of them have not yet recovered.

Real fact is that facing each other across Constitution avenue are two great mushroom military growths. One is the army, the normal agency of defense, which of late has added personnel by the score. The other is the Defense Commission, a sort of super-preparedness council. But no one knows which of these is the real boss.

And even within the Defense Commission itself, there is no boss. Relations between commissioners are on a purely personal basis. Knudsen and Stettinius happen to be good friends, so each knows exactly what the other is doing. Other commissioners who don't happen to be close don't always know what the rest are doing.

* * *

Labor Goodwill.

ONE point made by Bernard Baruch in his talk before the Defense Commission was the necessity of having the goodwill of labor. Without this, he said, speed was impossible.

Roosevelt made a good start on this when on September 13 he sent congress a special message outlining labor standards which were to be followed in letting government contracts. However, it was not until ten days ago that the army actually wrote these standards into its contracts. Meanwhile many of these labor standards have been ignored.

For instance, when the contract for airplane engines was signed with Ford exactly one day after election, it caused a terrific furore in labor circles. But what labor did not know was that when the army first prepared the contract it even forgot to insert a clause requiring the Ford company to comply with the Walsh-Healey Act. Secret fact is that it was the Ford company which noticed the omission and called it to the attention of the army, which then inserted the clause.

The excuse of the army regarding its failure to put labor specifications into these contracts, is, 1st, that it is working at breakneck speed; 2nd, that the various labor laws are the law of the land and no special contract is required for compliance.

This, however, is a point which labor does not appreciate, and there has been more and more grumbling because labor safeguards have not been written into army contracts. In fact, already there is talk of a strike against the Ford company because of its new contract and its failure to live up to Labor Relations Board rulings.

During the campaign, the president met all inner circle complaints about the Defense Commission with assurances that as soon as the election was over he would give his whole attention to the problem and there would be far-reaching re-organization. But three weeks have passed and so far there is no indication that any action is imminent.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The most embarrassing thing that has happened to a No. 158 that I know of happened right here in Washington—or at least just across the District line in one of the suburbs.

He is 23 years old. His family is prominent in the community and comparatively well off. He was something of a football hero and just about a perfect physical specimen. He always has been quite a favorite in the neighborhood.

When Secretary of War Stimson plucked 158 out of the selective service fish bowl and made him No. 1 selectee in his district and the lad announced that he was proud and ready to go immediately, the neighborhood went into an orgy of patriotism.

The young man was wined and dined. The American Legion post gave a banquet in his honor. So did the D. A. R. He made speeches at the high school and the nearby college he had attended.

He spoke solemnly from the pulpit of his church. His girl gave a romantic touch to the hysteria by announcing they were engaged to be married "immediately after Johnny comes back from training."

It went on for weeks.

* * *

Lost His Turn.

FINALLY the lad made a visit to his local board to find out just how soon he would be called—and discovered that 52 selectees in his district had volunteered, had been classified and under the rules of selective service, had been given induction numbers ahead of his.

The chances are Johnny won't be called before next summer, if then—and no amount of pleading or pull can get him ahead of the boys over whom no fuss was made—the boys who enlisted and were found suitable for Class 1-A and immediate call.

Johnny's only chance of escaping the jibes of his pals while he waits around to be called is to enlist and get accepted—for three years' service—in the regular army. At least that's what the selective service officials tell me.

This enlistment of selectees by the hundreds of thousands has, by the way, borne out a prediction passed along in these columns many weeks ago, namely, that first year "calls" from the army will get very few, if any, selectees who haven't enlisted, no matter what their order numbers are.

One draft official told me recently that he estimates more than 400,000 selectees (or men desiring to get into the regular armed forces) had enlisted or applied to their local boards for immediate induction since selective service became a certainty. And that he believes present trends indicate this many more will be on the rolls by the time the Army is ready for them.

* * *

One of the principal reasons for enlistments by selectees, draft officials find, is that young men just out of college and not yet started on their professional careers are eager "to get it over with" before they take a turn at making their marks in the world.

Although no check has been made, it is thought that by far the greater number of selectees applying for immediate induction are young doctors, dentists, lawyers, engineers and tyros in other professions.

* * *

Another Rush Seen.

ANOTHER rush of these young graduates to the colors is expected as soon as the colleges close their first term sessions in January. Practically an avalanche of enlistments is anticipated when the school year ends in June.

An interesting paradox which has put puzzled furrows in the heads of army and draft officials is that although they have sought, by all means of publicity, to make army life as attractive as possible, they have had to do everything in their power to prevent (until the army can handle them) that rush to the colors that invariably comes with patriotic hysteria.

A Farmer's Diary

Precious Old Deed

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I PURCHASED apples from a neighbor who lives on the highest point of land in all this section. Westward, the village and the sweep of level farm land beyond appear as though I viewed them from a mountain. Cattle, like specks of red and white, streams like silver ribbons, gravel roads like zigzag threads crisscrossing the country into a crazy quilt of pale green and drab and russet.

"Have you always lived here?" I asked the gracious lady of the house.

"No, I haven't," she admitted with a reluctant smile, "but five generations of my husband's people did. It's an old homestead, and a finer view and a healthier place to live nobody ever had. I have the old deed made of parchment, upstairs, that was given to the first one of the family. It is dated 1817, and signed by James Madison."

"Would you let me see it?"

"Yes indeed." She went to bring the precious document.

When she put it in my hand I was much surprised to see a single piece of parchment, about the size of a standard sheet of typewriter paper. The lines were far apart.

"JAMES MADISON," it began, "President of the United States, to all to whom these presents shall come, greeting."

"Isn't that nice?" she said. "It always makes that President seem nearer to our home here on the hill than any other one. After more than 125 years, it's like a handclasp." She pointed to another place where it said, "the territory west of the Ohio and north of the mouth of the Kentucky river" . . . and again to the last two lines which read, "to have and to hold, the said quarter section of land, with the appurtenances thereto, unto and the said L—— his heirs and assigns, forever."

"We find it hard to keep things going, sometimes," she said. "Our children are away most of the time, and we're both older than we used to be. But we don't aim to get rich or even have much left when we pass away. We'd rather put it back into the place from which it came.

"It is a very precious homestead to both of us. It clothed and fed five generations before our time, and it will do the same for generations more. We love the murmuring cedars, the orchard, and the wide sweeping view. It's as though every clod was a part of us."

They are rich — immeasurably rich—I thought as I went down from the hilltop. How completely they possess the farm they live upon!

LITERARY CLUBS HAVE AFTERNOON PROGRAMS

Mrs. George Bowers, Mrs. A. E. Merkel In Charge At Tourist Session; Sorosis Continues Study of Holland.

IN SPITE of the strange actions of the weather yesterday afternoon and evening, a number of the Mansfield club leaders braved the icy winds and chilling rains to go to various meetings throughout the city. Mrs. J. W. Galbraith received members of the Tourist club at the Women's Club Tuesday afternoon when Mrs. Dimon Herring, vice president, conducted the session.

"Where the Old South Still Lives" was the title of the paper given by Mrs. George Bowers who has traveled widely in the south, and Mrs. A. E. Merkel spoke on the "Five Hundredth Anniversary of Printing" telling of Guetenberg, the inventor of the printing press. Mrs. R. W. Cellars told of a famous newspaper scoop.

During the meeting the members agreed to bring gifts to be sent to girls at the Girls' Industrial school at Delaware to the next session which will be held Dec. 10 at the home of Mrs. J. C. Stout, 345 North Townview circle.

* * *

Seventeen members of the Mansfield Sorosis gathered at the Women's Club yesterday afternoon with the Misses Sophie and Bertha Ruess for a regular session. Mrs. George B. Ganyard opened the program with a paper on "Dutch Homes." She pointed out the strict cleanliness and order of the homes, and the bright colors used both within and without. The speaker also told her audience of the extreme safety consciousness exhibited by the people, and the similarity between country and city dwellings.

"Dutch Markets" was the title of the paper given by Mrs. C. L. Allen, and she dealt with the large wholesale markets especially the Alkmaar where 10,000 pounds of cheese are sold annually. She also described the old trading customs surrounding the market places. In connection with her talk she spoke of the dairy and flower markets.

Thanksgiving quotations were given for roll call. The next meeting will be held Dec. 10 at 7:30 p. m. with Miss Grace Courtney. The program will be given by Mrs. Earle Paxton and Mrs. Leroy McGinty.

16 ATTEND.

There were 16 members of the Get-Together club present for a meeting at the home of Mrs. Helen Stickrod, 104 Jeanette avenue, last evening. Prizes in the games weer won by Mrs. Martha Marcoff, Mrs. Christine Whyte, Mrs. Helen Elliott and the hostess. Luncheon was served at a late hour. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Rose Manley, Rhodes Heights, on Dec. 10, when a gift exchange will be held.

Shopping Around...

With MARIANNE

JUST four weeks from today, Christmas shopping will be a thing of the past, and your friends will be unwrapping the presents you've given them—so you'd best make your selections early in order to be sure that all your gifts are pleasing ones. . . . And it really shouldn't be hard to do that this season—there are so many grand suggestions downtown now.

Marianne

* * *

For instance, one of the most famous French perfume houses has packaged up its favorite scents in special gift containers for the holiday. . . . One of the cutest things yet is the "family album." This flat, book-like box does resemble an album and has a purple velvet bow on the front. Then inside are three family portraits—which really are little bottles of perfume, with their names ("Little Tweed," "Baby A Bientot" and "Baby Confetti") printed below, with a little blue bow beside each. . . . The ever-popular Tweed has stepped out in a new streamlined bottle with a wooden top, and it comes in combination sets with soap and dusting powder. . . . This Christmas, the "three silent messengers" (Shanghai, Miracle and Tweed) are done up in an attractive box of turquoise, gold and white. . . . All of these scents can be obtained in dainty little sachet baskets and pillows of pastel satin, as well as cologne and atomizer combinations.

* * *

One of America's leading cosmeticians has several clever and festive packages on the market just now. . . . A large-size bottle of Blue Grass cologne can be purchased in a peek-a-boo box of white with red and gold dots that lift up for a glance at the bottle inside. . . . Then there's a swirl of silver tinsel around the box too. . . . A large red and white striped candy cane (of paper, of course) is filled with some of this manufacturer's dusting powder and lipstick, and tied with shiny silver tinsel and red and green holly. . . . "Merry, Merry Christmas" written in golden letters on a pliofilm cone covers a blue boule, filled with a little bottle of perfume, and decorated with tinsel and other yuletide trimmings.

* * *

ANOTHER much appreciated gift item that shouldn't be overlooked is lingerie. . . . Some of the prettiest nightgowns come in sets with matching negligees. . . . For instance there's a satin gown which has a negligee in a matching shade of chiffon, fashioned with a fitted girdle and covered-satin button trim. . . . This can be obtained in pastel blue or tea rose. . . . Another combination is of bemberg crepe and satin. . . . Here the satin gown is trimmed with the bemberg sheer in an identical print, and the long-sleeved negligee is of the same bemberg material. . . . These prints come in pale pink and blue. . . . Still another style tops a daintily printed gown with a matching quilted satin bedjacket, and these come in white, light blue and pink.

* * *

Robes of all kinds make nice gifts too, and there are zipper and wrap-around styles in bright shades of corduroy, plain colored and printed quilted satin, rayon crepe and satin. . . . One model I saw while shopping yesterday was reversible—being quilted satin on one side, to be worn as a robe, and plain satin on the other, to be worn as a negligee. . . . Trimmed with a heavy satin cording, this robe can be purchased in pastel pink or blue. . . . Those zipper slips are always welcome gifts, because they fit so well, and they come in eight shades of taffeta, and four shades(tea rose, white, pink and navy) of satin.

* * *

IN THE gift departments downtown, you'll find all sorts of pottery dishes for table centerpieces. . . . They're most all low and come in combinations of pastel shades. . . . Then there is a variety of pastel animals (ducks, penguins, fawns and turtles) and flowers to use with them. . . . Oh yes, and if you've a friend who's a collector, you'll find that the local shops are filled with figurines of all little china animals and pitchers of all descriptions.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"AMEN!" Dickly said fervently, and I echoed the prayer. Then he spoke briskly.

"Is Mother asleep. If she is, Dad, will you say goodbye to her for me when she awakens."

"You must go up yourself now," I told him. "She's all right now, but she had a heart attack when you called on the telephone and she knew that you were safe. She's waiting to see you."

He was inside the house as I finished and I heard him running down the hall. I went over to my small daughter held in Katie's strong arms.

"Ma-ma go way?" she said a bit dolefully as she looked at my hat and coat.

"Yes, Mother has to go," I told her, kissing her adorable upturned face, "but she's coming back again very soon, and she'll bring you something nice?"

"A bunny?" she said hopefully, for she never gets tired of the picturesque cloth rabbits, of which she has a large collection.

"Yes, a bunny," I said, for it was no time to cavil at trifles, and I knew that the promise would keep her content and tranquil.

"Sank you, Ma-ma," she said gravely as she has been taught, and I could not help kissing her again, as I told her as gravely, "You are very welcome, darling."

Junior and Roderick flanked me on either side as I turned away.

"You're going away!" they said accusingly. "Is Dad going too, just as he's come home. And what are we going to do about the plants?"

I took a hand of each and swung them around facing me.

"You are old enough to be brave and sensible," I told them, "and I expect you to take this pluckily. Something very important has come up, something we heard about only a few minutes ago, and we must go up to the city for a day or two. We shall be back the first minute we can, and until then I want you to be good, brave boys."

"We will," they chorused valiantly. "But what about the little plants? Aunt Katherine called us in here before we had finished."

"That's because Daddy is in such a hurry that he won't have but a minute to say good-bye to you," I told them. "But the minute we're gone, go back and get all the little plants in those flats into the ground. Jim will help you, and the rest of the flats will have to wait until I get back, for I can't take time to tell you just where I want them. Do you understand?"

"Okay," they chimed together, and then Dicky came running down the stairs.

"All set?" he asked, and at my assent he gave both boys an affectionate farewell, then, while I kissed them, swung his idolized little daughter high above his head while she squealed delightedly, and kissed her tenderly, lingeringly when he had put her down. Then he grabbed my arm and rushed me to his waiting car.

"I haven't taken my luggage out," he said. "Where is yours?"

"Already in," I said.

"Good girl!" he commented, and then we were off, with Faith chirping "Bye-bye" and waving her chubby hands from the shelter of Katie's arms, and the boys sending vociferous farewells after us. I dabbed at my eyes surreptitously, but Dicky saw the gesture.

"It gets you, old girl, doesn't it?" he asked tenderly.

"Today especially," I acknowledged. "I can't help thinking of Lillian and how it might—"

"Don't finish it," he said a bit hoarsely. "And don't think of that angle of it any more. Let's put our heads together as to what story we can fix up for Lillian."

"Why not tell her the truth?" I asked.

"It would kill her," he replied. "She's so proud of Marion. I'd do anything rather than let her know what the girl is doing. Perhaps we can manage it so we can get her back with Lil never knowing what has really happened."

"Do you know what has really happened?" I demanded hotly. Do you?"

"No, I don't know," he said, "but the evidence is pretty damning against Marion."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

USE HIS WEAKNESS

One of your side's assets consists of the weaknesses of your opponents. If you have them sized up dependably, you can get away with many things which otherwise would not be possible. Such a characteristic as a preference for short suit leads against No Trump by one opponent can enable you to score occasional games not truly in the cards.

	♠ 10 8 5 ♥ 10 ♦ A K 10 6 3 ♣ 8 6 3 2
♠ J 9 3 ♥ Q 9 6 5 2 ♦ 9 5 ♣ 10 7 4	W. N. E. S.	♠ Q 6 4 2 ♥ A K 7 ♦ 7 4 2 ♣ K 9 5
	♠ A K 7 ♥ J 8 4 3 ♦ Q J 8 ♣ A Q J

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 NT	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 NT

The type of bidding being used by North and South really called for North to bid 2-Diamonds over his partner's opening 1-No Trump. But North knew West as a player given to leading his short suit against No Trump contracts, if his hand was not extra strong, in an effort to hit his partner's suit, and also when he had some honor cards which he feared to underlead in other suits. In fact, this fellow overdid a very good thing.

North's No Trump raise instead of a bid of his suit was solely because West might be thereby lured into leading diamonds. That is exactly what he did, offering the diamond 9. As a consequence, the declarer made five tricks in diamonds, two in spades and four in clubs by finessing and overtaking his diamond honors, giving him eleven tricks before the defenders got the lead again.

If North had bid his diamonds, West would have led a low heart, and the contract would have been beaten by five tricks in that suit.

Tomorrow's Problem.

Following normal bidding which puts South into 5-Diamonds, if West takes two hearts and South ruffs the third, what should be his very next move?

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, November 28.

THE LUNAR transits for this day indicate a rather erratic and peculiar trend of events in which much insight, strategy and shrewdness must be relied upon to avert difficult and disintegrating situations. These may suddenly arise from surprising and unforeseen sources, with disastrous and up-rooting velocity. They may affect business associations and surroundings, with intimate relations put to high strain.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year which may be a radical and revolutionary one, with sudden and peculiar adventures or experiences. These may uproot both environs and associates, plans and objectives, and seem to be quite devastating. However as the intuitions, ideals and mythical qualities are under benefic stimuli some happy inspiration or curious inner guidance may sidetrack all dangers and disasters.

A child born on this day, while being erratic, impulsive, variable, restless and unaccountable, yet should be original, have good creative ability and have much subtlety, idealism and inspirational urge of high order.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

CHAPTER VII

The day of the screen test Glory was trembling as she walked through the studio gates. Helen was working at another studio, Scottie was out of the city and Glory was left alone to face the most important day of her life. She thought of her mother and how proud she would be if she could see her daughter today — fighting for the chance to continue the career which Glory's mother had given up to marry Henry Stevens.

"I'll never give up," Glory promised herself. "Never!"

But she soon discovered that she was just another screen test to the make-up department. First the black hair was washed and curled, and then the experiments with powders and lipsticks began. The bored operators were totally uninterested in Glory as a person and their indifference soothed her jangled nerves.

For almost two hours she sat patiently while clever fingers applied cold cream, lotions and powder to her face. She was amazed at the different faces that appeared in the mirror—all of them hers! Sad, happy, gay, tragic — each a mask of emotion portrayed by the magic of make-up. Finally the most natural effect was selected, the black curls brushed and re-pinned, and Glory was ready. She felt like a stranger to herself in the unfamiliar powder and paint as she hurried to the wardrobe department where Van was to give her her costume.

"Oh, Van, I'm scared to death," she confided.

But Van Linningham was not interested in her feelings. "Wait until you see this costume, Glory."

It was Van's favorite color, pale blue a taffeta that photographed a soft gray, so flattering to the eye of the camera. Glory knew her lines. She had studied all week. She was to do a scene from a recent picture in which she, a Southern belle, bade her sweetheart good-bye as he left for war.

"Mona Greer wore this costume in the picture, remember?" asked Van. "But she didn't look like you will. If they could all wear clothes like you do, my troubles would be over."

Glory tried to laugh but it froze in her throat.

"How can I go through with it?" she thought desperately.

The familiar lines she was to speak faded from her memory. She could scarcely stand still long enough for the wardrobe girls to fit the elaborate gown. Her head ached from the strain of waiting. Would she ever be ready? Van fussed with the full skirt. A woman from the make-up department tucked an unruly curl back into place and added more brilliantine. When she arrived on the set where the test was to be made, Glory could have screamed from nerves and exhaustion.

Max Cavell, who was to direct, had not arrived but the set was cluttered with cameramen who eyed her with bored disinterest. Glory was afraid to sit down for fear of not being able to manage the hooped skirt. Later she learned that there was small stools for such purposes but no one bothered to tell her as she stood wide-eyed and frightened and embarrassed.

"Miss Stevens!"

Glory whirled around, expecting to see Max Cavell, but it was Allan Rhodes! The idol of a million women was smiling at her.

"I'm going to play with you for this test," he informed her, then seeing her surprise, he added, "It's customary, you know. We're glad to help out the newcomers."

"Thank you," was all Glory could manage to say. Would miracles never cease? Allan Rhodes, dark-eyed leading man of the screen, playing opposite HER — Glory Stevens!

Allan was amused but his voice was comforting. "Don't be afraid. I'll do all I can to help you."

* * *

How kind he was! How natural and boyish and different from the sophisticated lover of the screen. His handsome face was earnest as he said, "Don't let them laugh at you! We've seen plenty of girls come in here and make hysterical fools of themselves, but you're not that kind. You've got pride - don't forget it!"

He had found her vulnerable point. "Don't let them laugh at you." The words beat into Glory's brain. "Don't let them laugh." Suddenly renewed courage flowed into her veins. She threw back her head and smiled at him. "I'm all right now," she said, confidently.

"Good girl!" He pressed her hand in approval and Mav Cavell, coming on the set, found a calm and composed Glory Stevens.

As if in a dream, she heard the magic words—a melange of movie language. "Quiet, quiet, QUIET," . . . "Ready boys!" "Ready Mr. Rhodes?" "All right, Miss Stevens." "Lights." . . .

When it was over Glory felt weak with reaction. She hoped she had done well but at the time all that had mattered was that it was over.

"I'll let you know," Max promised.

* * *

Glory changed back into street clothes and stopped in the commissary for a cup of coffee. She was surprised at the late hour. A whole morning and afternoon's work for one screen test! How complicated it was when you saw it from the inside. How unromantic and tiresome the hours of preparation were that preceeded a few moments in front of the camera.

"How about having dinner with me?"

Glory did not hesitate. "I'd love to!" she said recklessly.

Allan drove an unpretentious black coupe.

"Where would you like to go?"

"Anywhere you like, Mr. Rhodes," Glory replied.

"Fair enough," Allen agreed, "but I warn you it won't be fancy."

"That's fine," Glory said. "I'm tired of fancy places."

"I know," Allan confided. "I've been seeing you around for weeks with that agent of yours."

Glory was surprised. "Of course I've seen you too, but, I didn't suppose you'd even notice me."

"You bet I noticed you, Glory. As a matter of fact, I asked to play in this test today. I wanted to know you."

As if understanding the strain of the afternoon's work, he did not mention the screentest further except to say, "You were okay, Glory, but don't think about it now. Let's forget business."

Financial Aid to Britain Left Up to Next Congress

EXPECT NEEDS MORE CLEARLY KNOWN LATER

Senate Foreign Relations Committee Decides on Postponement.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The senate foreign relations committee probably will decide today to postpone until early next year consideration of legislation for extending financial aid to Great Britain.

Postponement of the controversial subject was said to be in accord with wishes of President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Cordell Hull. British financial needs, it was said, will be more clearly known when the new congress convenes in January.

Meeting today for the first time under the direction of its new chairman, Walter F. George, who recently succeeded the late Sen. Key Pittman, (D.) Nev., the committee is expected to discuss various British aid proposals informally.

It has before it a bill be Sen. William H. King, (D.) Utah, to repeal the Johnson law—forbidding loans to World war debt defaulters—and to amend the neutrality act so that loans can be made to Great Britain.

Sen. Gerald P. Nye, (R.) N. D., a committee member, plans to press for action on a resolution empowering a sub-committee to determine the extent of British empire holdings in the United States.

George said there would be an informal discussion of those proposals at today's meeting, but was "confident no action will be taken."

George conferred with Secretary of State Cordell Hull yesterday and pointed out later than the British ambassador, Lord Lothian, had said upon his return from London this week that the financial aid question need not necessarily be settled until early next year.

The rest of congress was quiet today, both the house and senate being in recess. A senate judicary subcommittee considers the nomination of J. Warren Madden to be a judge of the U. S. court of claims. Madden's successor as chairman of the national labor relations board, Dr. Harry A. Millis, received unanimous approval of the senate yesterday.

When the house meets tomorrow it may complete action on the Walter-Logan bill which was unexpectedly passed by the senate yesterday. Rep. Francis E. Walter, (D.) Pa., co-author of the bill to subject the rulings of quasi-judicial agencies to court review, will attempt to end its 18 month journey through congress by asking the house to agree to revision made by the senate.

3 Juveniles Win Court Paroles on Federal Charges

Three juvenile delinquents, involved in two offenses against the federal postal department, have been paroled upon recommendation of a district representative of the department, according to probate court attaches.

Two Lexington youths, both 15, were charged with stealing cash from the postoffice. They were said to have taken approximately $15 over a period of a month, by reaching a lock box opening to an open cash drawer beside the box. They were paroled to an official of the community.

The second case involved a 12-year-old colored girl of Mansfield who was charged with forging an endorsement of a postal money order which had fallen into her hands. The order was cashed at a local shoe store.

Both cases were heard by Probate Judge C. J. Anderson. As none of the juveniles had ever been in trouble before, representative of the postal department recommended that they be paroled. The Mansfield girl was paroled to her mother.

Returning Vultee Workers to Be Inspected

There should be some way of compiling the bits of unconscious humor which creeps into police reports. Last night police found a man very, very drunkee who had been wandering around in the rain and sleet. Their report gave the man's name and merely said "Soaked inside and out."

* * *

Police Chief McCarthy of Ashland is learning all about Mansfield's parking meters—the hard way. The visiting officer overstayed his parking time today and received a yellow ticket. Another "pupil" who had to learn that way is Claude Hunter. The former mayor came to police office this morning to pay his dollar and said that he didn't know the meters were in effect on Saturday nights and had parked at a meter without feeding the kitty. And after all the publicity on parking meter schedules!

* * *

Mansfielders who think they are being "abused" by the present cold snap should take pity on the members of Battery D, now in camp at Fort Shelby, Miss. According to a letter received here from Sergeant Howard W. Perathaner, the temperature has been as low as 24 degrees at the camp during the past week, while in Mansfield it has generally been over 30 degrees. In order to keep warm, the boys have set up stoves in each tent and have dug out the heavy clothing issued them by the government.

* * *

3 DAYS LEFT IN ROLL CALL

Red Cross, With 8,509 Members Reported, Confident Drive Will Exceed Quota.

With the Red Cross Roll Call scheduled to close Saturday evening, workers today were confident that the minimum goal of 10,500 members would be topped, perhaps by several hundred.

The Roll Call roster today shows a total of 8,509 members leaving 2,000 yet to be enrolled. Office workers said "at least that number was in sight," and very probably 200 more. It was believed that when the Rall Call is ended the membership would be an increase over last year's roster of 10,700.

The Shelby branch workers' report in the last few days showed that the Roll Call had gone over in a big way in that community. Shelby turned in 2,600 memberships totaling $3,000.

Most of the industries in the city have turned in their reports and all showed increases over last year. Interest in Red Cross work is at a higher point this year than any time since the close of the World war, according to workers in the drive.

The Roll Call opened on Armistice day—Nov. 11—and as usual closes on the last day of the month. It is believed that most of the county precincts will have reported by the closing date.

Added to the list of 100 per cent concerns and offices this week are the following:

City police department; city sewage department; fire department; the Mansfield Printing company; G and H Supply company; Empire Food Market; Sammons Outdoor advertising; Axtell Dairy Products company; En-Vo Engineering Products company; Norwalk Truck lines; Firestone Service Stores, Inc.; Standard Oil company, Miller street.

Standard Oil company, 67 West Fourth street and 297 Park avenue west; C. O. Hubbs Oil company; Sears Roebuck and company; J. C. Penney company; Mansfield Hi-Speed Products company 190 Park avenue west and 238 North Mulberry street; Pure Oil company; Liberty Shoe store; Indian Refining company; Pennsylvania Rubber and Supply company; state liquor store.

Sun Glow Industries, Inc.; Rickets and Nichols; the Mansfield Lumber company; the Hughes Supply company; H. M. Brown's Drug store; Russell Coleman's garage; Western Union Telegraph company; Sanitary sewer department, Superior Brass Manufacturing company; Weldon and Huston law office; Prince's Sandwich shop; Fort's Auto Electric service; Golden-Russell, Inc.; Laufsbaugh Pharmacy; Dr. C. L. Shafer's office; Ohio Bell Telephone company; Park Grocery company.

SERVICES SET

SHELBY—Funeral services for the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Pry of Shelby Settlement, who died Tuesday at Shelby Memorial hospital, were held today at Shelby Settlement Catholic church. Burial was made in the parish cemetery.

SEND THOUSANDS OF CHRISTMAS HEALTH SEALS THROUGH MAILS

Thousands of tiny Christmas Health Seals, each one an atom in a great national structure for the betterment of public health, were distributed through Mansfield and Richland county this week by direct mail.

The seals this year carry a picture of three small children singing Christmas carols. This theme was chosen because it seemed fitting in view of the fact that in this hemisphere alone children still have cause to sing.

The seals, in sheets of 100, were mailed to 4,800 persons in the city and county who most probably would be interested in the fight against tuberculosis. The quota set for this year is $4,800.

Christmas seals are the sole support of the National Tuberculosis association and its affiliated state, city and county organizations. The only method by which the public is asked to participate in the work of the national association is through the annual sale of Christmas seals.

In Richland county and Mansfield the sale of health seals is sponsored by the Richland County Tuberculosis association of which Dr. F. J. Heringhaus is president. Mrs. H. C. Brokaw of Shelby is chairman of the seal sale this year, with Mrs. Roy C. Rehder, Mansfield, in charge of the mailing campaign.

Help to Protect Your Home from Tuberculosis

The attractive seals, which are used extensively on mailing packages and greetings, will be sold at the postoffices in Mansfield and Shelby after Dec. 1.

Funds received through the annual sale of health seals are used in tuberculosis diognostic work through the free clinics. Twelve regular clinics and four re-check clinics are held throughout the year, all of them free. This work is separate from the money expended each year by county commissioners for treatment of the disease.

FBI AGENTS TO CHECK AGAINST POSSIBLE SPIES

16-Month Agreement Signed To End 12-Day Strike In Plane Factory.

(By Associated Press)

DOWNEY, Calif.—The sprawling Vultee aircraft factory, its 12-day strike settled by a 16-months agreement providing for arbitration of workers' disputes, resumes operations today on its $84,000,000 worth of military contracts.

The agreement, signed last night by representatives of the company and the CIO United Automobile Workers, carries wage increases of some $1,400,000 annualy for production men in the minimum pay bracket.

Richard W. Millar, Vultee president, said "it will take a little time to get the factory in shape for work resumption, but we probably can start some men back to work at once."

Other company representatives declared there would be no "mass re-employment."

"It will be a slow process," one of them said. "The men will be subjected to almost as close scrutiny as when they were originally employed."

Federal bureau of investigation agents, it was declared, will scrutinize returning workers closely to make sure that no spies effect entry into the plant.

Attorney General Jackson and Rep. Martin Dies, chairman of the congressional committee investigating subversive activities, have charged that "Communist influences" played a part in the walkout. The charges were denied by union officials.

Hailing the settlement as serving "to smash the 50-cent minimum in the aircraft industry," Wyndham Mortimer, international UAW representative, said: "it's our first major victory in the industry on the west coast."

ILLNESS FATAL

W. R. Oberlin Dies at Home; Rites Set For Friday.

Wilber R. Oberlin, 54, of 101 Maple street, died early today at his home following a lingering illness. Born in Bellville, Sept. 29, 1886, Mr. Oberlin, had been a resident of Mansfield for a number of years.

Surviving are his wife, Carrie Pryor Oberlin; a son, Richard L., at home; a brother, Edward of Galion; a half brother, Frank Oberlin of Portland, Ore; and seven sisters, Mrs. L. M. CHAPTER VII

The day of the screen test Glory was trembling as she walked through the studio gates. Helen was working at another studio. Scottie was out of the city and Glory was left alone to face the most important day of her life. She thought of her mother and how proud she would be if she could see her daughter today — fighting for the chance to continue the career which Glory's mother had given up to marry Henry Stevens.

"I'll never give up," Glory promised herself. "Never!"

But she soon discovered that she was just another screen test to the make-up department. First the black hair was washed and curled, and then the experiments with powders and lipsticks began. The bored operators were totally uninterested in Glory as a person and their indifference soothed her jangled nerves.

For almost two hours she sat patiently while clever fingers applied cold cream, lotions and powder to her face. She was amazed at the different faces that appeared in the mirror—all of them hers! Sad, happy, gay, tragic — each a mask of emotion portrayed by the magic of make-up. Finally the most natural effect was selected, the black curls brushed and re-pinned, and Glory was ready. She felt like a stranger to herself in the unfamiliar powder and paint as she hurried to the wardrobe department where Van was to give her her costume.

"Oh, Van, I'm scared to death," she confided.

But Van Liningham was not interested in her feelings. "Wait until you see this costume, Glory."

It was Van's favorite color, pale blue- a taffeta that photographed a soft gray, so flattering to the eye of the camera. Glory knew her lines. She had studied all week. She was to do a scene from a recent picture in which she, a Southern belle, bade her sweetheart good-bye as he left for war.

"Mona Greer wore this costume in the picture, remember?" asked Van. "But she didn't look like you will. If they could all wear clothes like you do, my troubles would be over."

Glory tried to laugh but it froze in her throat.

"How can I go through with it?" she thought desperately.

The familiar lines she was to speak faded from her memory. She could scarcely stand still long enough for the wardrobe girls to fit the elaborate gown. Her head ached from the strain of waiting. Would she ever be ready? Van fussed with the full skirt. A woman from the make-up department tucked an unruly curl back into place and added more brilliantine. When she arrived on the set where the test was to be made, Glory could have screamed from nerves and exhaustion.

Max Cavell, who was to direct, had not arrived but the set was cluttered with cameramen who eyed her with bored disinterest. Glory was afraid to sit down for fear of not being able to manage the hooped skirt. Later she learned that there was small stools for such purposes but no one bothered to tell her as she stood wide-eyed and frightened and embarrassed.

"Miss Stevens!"

Glory whirled around, expecting to see Max Cavell, but it was Allan Rhodes! The idol of a million women was smiling at her.

"I'm going to play with you for this test," he informed her, then seeing her surprise, he added, "It's customary, you know. We're glad to help out the newcomers."

"Thank you," was all Glory could manage to say. Would miracles never cease? Allan Rhodes, dark-eyed leading man of the screen, playing opposite HER — Glory Stevens!

Allan was amused but his voice was comforting. "Don't be afraid. I'll do all I can to help you."

* * *

How kind he was! How natural and boyish and different from the sophisticated lover of the screen. His handsome face was earnest as he said, "Don't let them laugh at you! We've seen plenty of girls come in here and make hysterical fools of themselves, but you're not that kind. You've got pride—don't forget it!"

He had found her vulnerable point. "Don't let them laugh at you." The words beat into Glory's brain. "Don't let them laugh." Suddenly renewed courage flowed into her veins. She threw back her head and smiled at him. "I'm all right now," she said, confidently.

"Good girl!" He pressed her hand in approval and Mav Cavell, coming on the set, found a calm and composed Glory Stevens.

As if in a dream, she heard the magic words—a melange of movie language. "Quiet, quiet, QUIET," . . . "Ready boys!" "Ready Mr. Rhodes?" "All right, Miss Stevens." "Lights" . . .

When it was over Glory felt weak with reaction. She hoped she had done well but at the time all that had mattered was that it was over.

"I'll let you know," Max promised.

* * *

Glory changed back into street clothes and stopped in the commissary for a cup of coffee. She was surprised at the late hour. A whole morning and afternoon's work for one screen test! How complicated it was when you saw it from the inside. How unromantic and tiresome the hours of preparation were that preceeded a few moments in front of the camera.

"How about having dinner with me?"

Glory did not hesitate. "I'd love to!" she said recklessly.

Allan drove an unpretentious black coupe.

"Where would you like to go?"

"Anywhere you like, Mr. Rhodes," Glory replied.

"Fair enough," Allen agreed, "but I warn you it won't be fancy."

"That's fine," Glory said. "I'm tired of fancy places."

"I know," Allan confided. "I've been seeing you around for weeks with that agent of yours."

Glory was surprised. "Of course I've seen you too, but, I didn't suppose you'd even notice me."

"You bet I noticed you, Glory. As a matter of fact, I asked to play in this test today. I wanted to know you."

As if understanding the strain of the afternoon's work, he did not mention the screentest further except to say, "You were okay, Glory, but don't think about it now. Let's forget business."
